BREMEN WILL FLY BACK TO GERMANY

Mr. Ochs Celebrates
A Changing World

— By Arthur Brisbane —

Copyright, 1928, by Star Co.

THE THREE FLIERS, two German, one Irish, will stick together, and fly on to New York together. Fitzmaurice had no idea of accepting a welcome ahead of the others.

Baron von Huenefeld, who financed the Bremen trip, says that part of the time, flying through fog, he wrote poetry, and part of the time wondered what was going to happen.

Von Huenefeld has been nominated for the German Parliament and national pride will probably elect him in spite of his friendly attitude toward the ex-kaiser.

Worthy of your polite attention is Mr. Toichiro Araki from Tokio. He jumped out of an airplane on Long Island at twelve minutes to five yesterday morning, on his way in a race around the world, for the Japanese newspaper, Jiji Shimpo.

Mr. Araki, by airplane, automobile, fast trains and boats, expects to go around the world in 34 days. When Jules Verne suggested a trip in 80 days, that was thought preposterous.

Adolph S. Ochs, owner of the New York Times, celebrates his 50th year as a newspaper publisher. That publishing career, begun in Chattanooga 50 years ago, has agreed with Mr. Ochs. Friends that recently saw him climbing hills on the Pacific coast observed no change in him in the last 20 years. May he continue publishing 50 years more and then go to live in Pasadena permanently.

The Lutheran Church received 5000 suggestions in a national contest for an advertising slogan suited to the teachings of that church. The judges adopted this:

"A changeless Christ for a changing world."

Fortunately the changing world changes its ideas of Christ and His teachings. It no longer burns witches in His name, or tortures those that choose to think as they please, religiously.

When Protestants in Switzerland burned Dr. Servetus alive, on a slow fire, mocking his appeals for a speedier death, they thought they were pleasing Christ. They were mistaken.

Sen. Simmons, of North Carolina, opposes the nomination of Gov. Smith, and the first Democratic fight of the 1928 campaign is under way, with the odds in Gov. Smith's favor. He is playing golf, not noticing the fight.

King George won his first race of the season yesterday, the Brandon handicap. The King's horse, Scuttle, by Capt. Cuttle, out of Stained Glass, carried a good deal of loyal British money bet upon him.

If Heeney beats Tunney in the coming fight, Dempsey will return and fight Heeney. If Dempsey wins, perhaps Jeffries and Willard will return to fight him.

But Heeney probably won't beat Tunney. Even in prize fighting thinking counts. Tunney is the better thinker, besides Tunney's defeat would be unprofitable for the prize fight "insiders."

Charley Birger, Illinois gang leader and killer, hanged yesterday, told Rabbi Mazue he had twice tried to kill himself since his conviction. Birger hired another killer to work for him, "paying $50 for each shot that entered the body of the man picked for death." The gangster's effort to kill himself may have been due to fear that he would be unable to keep his nerve facing the hangman.

BLACKLIST FOES ARE BEATEN

Washington, April 20 (AP)—Moving swiftly against its insurgent element, the Daughters of the American Revolution in convention today almost unanimously defeated three protesting resolutions including one aimed against the much-talked about blacklist.

The resolutions, incorporating the protests of the group led by Mrs. Helen Tufts Bailie of Cambridge, a foe of the blacklist, sought to have the chapters select speakers without interference from the national organization, an accounting from the committee on national defence of its views on naval building and approval by the chapters of any national policy before it was enunciated by the society.

Only a dozen scattering delegates rose when the question was put to a vote.

A short time before the committee on resolutions had reported the resolutions to the floor of the convention without recommendation. Mrs. Bailie had appeared there with a photostatic copy of a letter written by President Coolidge to an officer of the Ford Hall Forum of Boston.

GREENLY ISLAND, Quebec, April 20 (by Airplane to Seven Islands, Quebec, and by wireless and land wire to Boston and New York).

The story of our flight across the Atlantic from east to west and of our forced landing at Greenly Island, near Labrador, is a great combination of serious work and serious jest.

We believed we would get across.

But first, let me speak of my comrades, Major James Fitzmaurice and Captain Hermann Koehl. They are marvelous fellows. Never have I seen such men.

Koehl and I decided we would fly to America or Heaven together, and at Baldonnel, in the Irish Free State, we were joined by our comrade, Col. James Fitzmaurice. We tried and won the battle. Storm,

Agnes, Que., April 20 (By Canadian Press Staff Correspondent)—The German monoplane Bremen will be flown from New York to Germany, making the first round-trip flight over the Atlantic ocean, Capt. Koehl told the Canadian Press correspondent before the latter's departure from Greenly island for Murray bay.

The correspondent arrived here this morning.

Capt. Koehl said it would take six or seven days after the receipt of spare parts before the Bremen could be put in shape to leave Greenly Island.

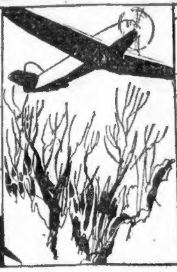
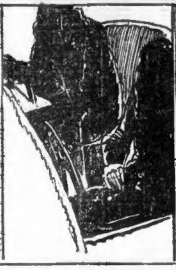
SOME THRILLS 'FLYING BARON' GOT OVER OCEAN---

1—BREMEN nearly "became mutton" when stray sheep wandered across Baldonnel runway.



2—THEN barely missed crash into tree because of effort to dodge sheep.

3—STRUCK dense fog, but determination to make "Mitchel Field or Heaven" kept them flying on.



4—KOEHL and Fitzmaurice alternated at controls over first half of Attic; meanwhile——

5—VON HUENEFELD sat in back seat writing poetry to prove his coolness to his comrades.

6—THEN the worst fog of all, as they neared land. Forced to fly scant fifty feet above water——

7—WITH compass spinning riddles that kept pilots guessing and forced them to keep——

8—DRIVING on through more fog banks, chasing up and down uncharted Labrador rivers.

BARON VON HUENEFELD'S STORY OF EPOCH FLIGHT

fog and snow beset our course, but somehow we won through.

It was difficult, but thanks to Fitzmaurice and Koehl we were able to reach civilization again, if not as yet our objective.

The flight was somewhat perilous from the start. We were fortunate to get off from the Baldonnel Airdome, in Ireland, at 5:38 Thursday morning, April 12, as well as we did. Starting down the runway, we attained good speed, but before we could take off an obstruction was seen in our path.

EVEN START WAS PERILOUS

Koehl and Fitzmaurice looked. The obstruction seemed to be a sheep that had wandered from its grazing field onto the runway. Somehow we managed to lift the Bremen off the ground far enough to escape that sheep and continue on our way.

A tree loomed straight ahead. Narrowly we averted the tree and zooming high in the air we were free of all obstructions. So we came to the Irish coast at Slyne Head and sped out over the broad Atlantic.

So far we had been fortunate. In the early part of the journey we encountered all sorts of weather. There were snow and rain and fog, but these were incidental. We came through them successfully.

Fitzmaurice and Koehl alternated at the controls, three hours on and three hours off.

I SAT IN THE BACK OF THE PLANE, SLEEPING WHEN I COULD, SOMETIMES WRITING POETRY AND SOMETIMES WONDERING WHAT WOULD ULTIMATELY HAPPEN TO US.

After a long time of this we came to the Grand Banks and to Newfoundland. So far the flight had been without incident other than those related above, except that sometimes we had such troubles as beset any plane in flight.

We arrived off Newfoundland about five o'clock (whether A. M. or P. M. not stated in the Baron's narrative), American time, on Friday.

There was a fog everywhere. The dreaded Grand Banks of Newfoundland! Added to the misery of the fog which blanketed everything everywhere was the strong southeasterly gale. And the sun was going down, after guiding us well all day.

Add to this the darkness, and the fact that the compass was almost discarded by virtue of its terrific variation, and you can imagine our plight. Koehl and Fitzmaurice kept going. They tried to climb above the fog, but were forced to come down and fly about 50 feet above the waters.

'NOT A NICE NIGHT'

But we could not fly there at night, and there was inpenetrable fog above us. What could we do? My comrades decided to go higher and climbed the Bremen upward until we were cruising along at the 6000 feet level. There we drove through the night.

It was not a nice night at all. I sat in the rear cockpit with my thoughts, while Fitzmaurice and Koehl forged ahead in front, taking their turns at the controls. Marvelous fellows. How they did it I do not know. One has much opportunity for thought when one is riding alone in the rear cockpit of a transoceanic aeroplane at night, and I have thought my thoughts about these two.

IT WAS FITZMAURICE WHO DISCOVERED LAND. He told Koehl, and flares were produced and sent off. Below us we could see what appeared to be a wilderness, clothed in forest.

It was still dark, but the flares told us what we wanted to know. There was land beneath us. We were jubilant.

FLARES LIGHT WAY

We flew on through the night as happy as young boys. Then dawn came and with daylight full vision of the land beneath us. We had been flying as best we could because there is such a terrific variation of the compass in the neighborhood of Newfoundland. Fitzmaurice and Koehl, however, believed that this land must be the interior of Labrador and we cruised for several hours about the land where Nungesser and Coli are believed to have been lost.

Fliers Jested as Death Faced Them Amid Gale

GREENLY ISLAND, April 20—While facing death in a raging storm over the northern ice fields, the German-Irish crew of the Bremen found courage in prayer and jest.

"We never lost our humor," said Baron Von Huenefeld. "He who has to die must die like a man. But before he dies, he must fight for his life."

We followed the course of an ice-covered river for a long time, and saw big lakes and huge mountain ranges, but not a sign of human habitation. Nothing was said, but the barometer of our spirits was falling again as each felt that the best hope for life, with our supply of benzol getting lower and lower with each precious drop, we were coming nearer and nearer to the end of the rope. Then we made for the coast again, but did not see a single sign of human habitation or life until soon after 5 o'clock on Friday, Greenwich time, which is about 1 o'clock where we were, we saw what Koehl and Fitzmaurice believed to be a ship frozen into the ice off the coast. We decided to come down and inspect it. Before this all of us had been seeing many things that were not there. Plainly we could see villages on the coast and all sorts of things, but these had all proved to be figments of our weary eyes and brains. Again we descended to investigate this new mirage.

Four times we circled over what proved to be our landing ground, hard by the White Lighthouse, then sent out a flare to determine the direction of the wind. Once more we circled, this time into the correct landing position, and glided in toward what proved to be a small lake in the center of our island haven.

A perfect landing was accomplished, but our wheels, crunching into the soft icy surface, bit in, and we turned on our nose, slightly damaging our propeller, and as it proved later, disabling the Bremen's under-carriage as well. But no one was hurt and soon we were crawling out of our good ship and stepping on firm ground again, to be greeted by Lighthousekeeper Letemplier and his family.

The husky dogs, which are the only means of transport in this lonely land, were yelping in a mad chorus, and from the mainland we could see people approaching, waving to us as they came across the ice. Soon we were shaking hands with these new-found friends, who have proved so wonderfully hospitable to us, and were on our way to the lighthouse, which has been our home ever since. Then food and sleep, the sleep of physically and mentally fatigued men. Fitzmaurice and Koehl, strained to the limit of the endurance of their eyes by the horrors of that awful night in the fog, could scarcely see, but warm, soothing boracic acid was soon prepared and eyes were bathed. And thence to bed.

THEN A DAY OF REST

The next day was a day of rest, the sending of messages to friends and inspection of the wonderful ship which carried us so well and so far. Another good rest on Saturday night and we were all three new men, alert and given to consideration of plans for removing ourselves to civilization in the best way at hand. But the way in which that help came to us was unexpected.

Late on Sunday we thought we heard a plane whirring overhead, but scarcely believed our eyes when we saw one come down and land gracefully across the ice at Long Point de Blanc Sablon on the mainland.

A moment's halt, then the machine arose again, directed by the people of Blanc Sablon to us on the island.

Within five minutes we were shaking hands with Pilot Schiller, Dr. Cuisinier and Engineer Thibault, those good friends who flew so far down the rocky coast to reach us as soon as they heard of our plight. That was Sunday evening.

Plans were talked over and it was decided that we must make every effort to reach our destination with our Bremen if it were humanly possible

A resident of Murray Bay, Quebec, was snapped by the cameraman as he stood admiring "Fitz." The Irishman was acclaimed by the entire populace and he showered his thanks on the people. It was Fitzmaurice who brought the first authentic details of the Bremen's remarkable flight. D. A. R. BLACKLIST FOES LOSE commending the work of this institution, which was declared by Mrs Bailie to have been blacklisted by the Massachusetts branch of the D. A. R.

The vote was announced at 1980 against, 14 for.

Tense silence prevailed while the resolutions were read. Cheers greeted the vote of defeat.

Mrs St. Omer Roy of Kansas author of the resolutions, sensing certain defeat, offered a motion to table the resolutions, but this was overwhelmingly turned down.

"I protest that every local member should have the opportunity to vote this down," declared Mrs J. B. Herron, vice-president-general from Pennsylvania.

"I wish to ask why such a paralyzing and destructive resolution was brought out by our resolutions committee?" asked Mrs. F. F. Greenawalt of Washington.

"It was felt that it should be properly be brought before this body," replied the chairman of the committee amid loud applause.

Answering a question from the floor, Mrs. Roy named societies to which she is affiliated, including the Women's International League for Peace and Freedom. Loud hissing greeted her announcement but was silenced by Mrs. Alfred J. Brosseau, presiding.

"Mrs Roy is entitled to the floor and the courtesy of the floor," said Mrs. Brosseau.

The letter of Mr. Coolidge was addressed to George H. Coleman, director of the Ford Hall Forum, and read:

"It gives me great pleasure to join your friends, who upon the occasion of its twentieth anniversary, will be expressing their appreciation of your great and unselfish service in founding and directing the Ford Hall Forum.

"It has been a vital influence in Boston and a good example for other communities. I hope it may be maintained under your guiding hand for many years to come.'

The copy of the president's letter and copies of what purported to be the blacklist were offered by Mrs. Bailie while she was arguing for a favorable report on the three resolutions.

The "blacklist" on which the Ford hall forum was listed, contained 60 or more names and was headed: "Organizations interlocking with radical groups either through their directorate or legislative programs."

Mrs. Bailie told the resolutions committee that one of the speakers approved by the Massachusetts State board of the D. A. R., the Rev. Herbert S. Johnson of Boston, has publicly denounced the Ford hall forum.

"Ford Hall Forum is a real open forum, in the strict sense of the word," Mrs. Bailie said after she appeared before the committee "Speakers may freely present their views there on any subject, but the Rev. Herbert S. Johnson denounced it before a meeting of Baptist ministers."

D. A. R. 'Blacklist' Compiled by Mrs. Frothingham?

Washington, April 20 (AP)—Mrs. Helen Tufts Bailie of Cambridge declared today that the famous Massachusetts blacklist which is disturbing the Daughters of the American Revolution was prepared by a woman not a member of the society.

"Mrs. Randolph Frothingham, who is not a member of the D. A. R., but of the Public Safety League of Boston, compiled the list," said Mrs. Bailie "But Mrs. Stephen M. Hurd, state vice-regent and chairman for national defense of the Massachusetts D. A. R., circulated it throughout the chapters."

Both Mrs. J. C. Peabody, Massachusetts regent, and Mrs. Hurd refused to comment on this statement.

RIDING CLUB SHOW THE BIG THING TONIGHT, SAYS BETTY ALDEN

Large Entry List Obliges Management to Open Contests at 7:45 P. M., Instead of 8.

CHAMPING STEEDS ALL IN THE PINK OF CONDITION ARE today occupying every available foot of space in the spacious New Riding Club stables, awaiting this evening and the bugle that calls the first class onto the tanbark. Reginald Bird and his Riding Club associates declare with pride quite commendable that the entry list for the two evenings of Invitation Horse Show is perfectly enormous. It taxes the utmost capacity of the Club, and reminds ardent horsemen whose memories span more than a decade or two of the good old days of the good old "Boston Horse Show" for which the swanky set hied itself to Mechanics hall to see its favorite nags and its favorite riders.

SO MANY "BIGGEST" AND "BEST" FEATURES MARK THE show, the management is due for hearty congratulations. And not the least reason for congratulation is the matter of judges. The management proudly declares that judges of the calibre of Dr. Grenside and Lieut. Col. Moss gives great eclat to the show, both being highly competent, both hailing from Canada and both being outstanding in their fields. The enormous entry list makes it imperative that the first class each evening enter on the dot of 7:45 and not at 8 o'clock, as the tickets read. Excitement and rivalry runs high in the many classes; especially so in the two "stake" classes, one for hunters and one for jumpers. But excitement is rife in every class.

RICHARD PLATT'S FRIENDS HAVE TO THANK HIM FOR A very special musical treat at the last of his "Wednesdays." For the edification of the guests bidden to these affairs Mr. Platt made of his final afternoon one to be long remembered, and had two of his intimates of the musical world as star performers. Heinrich Gebhard at the pianoforte and Harrison Keller playing the violin served up a very choice sort of musical afternoon. And Mr. Platt's pleasantly commodious studio in his Lime st. establishment was literally filled to overflowing.

THE PLATT MUSICALES, WITH TEA, EVERY FIRST AND third Wednesdays from the New Year to late April furnish a musical tidbit much anticipated and enjoyed by the circle to whom cards go annually. Both Messrs. Keller and Gebhard are close personal friends of the musician-host; but even so, procuring two such attractions for a single "Wednesday" is a feather in Mr. Platt's cap, and wound up the afternoons with utmost brilliance. After the music there was tea, with Mrs. James Hunnewell presiding behind the tall silver urn that is a Platt heirloom.

HARVARD'S DRAMATIC CLUB IS A BAND OF YOUNG MEN for whom no goal is too altitudinous. They very often hitch their wagon to a star and go soaring to the heights, dramatically. Just now the energetic band is hard at work on its spring production, "Hassan." The play by James Elroy Flecker will take the boards at Brattle hall, Cambridge, on the evenings of May 9, 10 and 11, before coming to town at the Repertory Theater on May 12. A directorial staff and a cast of super excellence and an advisory committee of personages of theatrical plus academic note are factors which the club members feel sure will spell great success for "Hassan."

Mrs. Harvey Perley Hood.

CHARLES LEATHERBEE, '28, of New York is the club's president and has a principal part. G. W. Harrington, who takes his sheepskin in 1930, is vice-president and plays the title role itself. Hollis G. Gerrish, '30, is secretary, and John H. Morris, '29, is treasurer. These four carry a main share of the dramatic production burden. Of the "advisory" set Winthrop Ames, George Pierce Baker, Frederick Bullard, Walter Pritchard Eaton, Jules E. Goodman, Louis E. Shipman and others of that ilk are of special luminosity. The author was one of England's most promising modern poets; his death in 1915 terminated a brilliant literary career.

WHEN A TRIO OF STAGE stars of the Otis Skinner, Henrietta Crosman, Minnie Maddern Fiske magnitude come to town at one time, it is quite fitting that social cognizance be taken of them. And since the trio are stars in the "Merry Wives of Windsor" it is quite fitting that the local social lights interested in the Shakespeare Foundation do the honors. So Mrs. William Lowell Putnam will entertain at tea on Tuesday next for the three above mentioned. And everyone hereabouts interested in the foundation is, of course, interested in the stars and the affair.

MR. SKINNER WILL TELL of the plans to rebuild the Shakespeare Memorial Theater at Stratford-on-Avon, England, and eminent Bostonians will be gathered in Mrs. Putnam's drawingroom to listen to him. R. Clipston Sturgis, Mrs. Barrett Wendell, Edward R. Warren, Denis McCarthy, Mrs. Charles Greely Loring, George C. Lee, Miss Alice M. Longfellow, Mrs. Larz Anderson, Prof. Lionel Marks, Miss Frances G. Curtis, Richard Ely Danielson, Judge Robert Grant, Frederic H. Curtiss and Prof. G. L. Kittredge are some of those who lend distinction to Boston's committee of the foundation.

A PRETTY BRIDE AND A smiling one, was Mrs. Harvey Perley Hood, 2d, the former Miss Barbara Churchill, whose day-before-the-holiday bridal was celebrated in the stately old First Parish Church out in Milton. The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Asaph Churchill of Milton, and the bridegroom's parents are Dr. and Mrs. George Hood. A modern bridal robe, embellished with some antique point de venise laces, furnished lovely adornment for the wedding's chief ornament. Miss Theresa de Normandie was an attendant, in taffeta crisp as an April breeze.

MR. AND MRS. STRAFFORD WENTWORTH of Milton announce the engagement of their eldest daughter, Miss Anne Wentworth, to Everett Morss, Jr., of Boston. Miss Wentworth made her debut in 1924-25 and is a granddaughter of the late Charles E. Wentworth of Cambridge and Portsmouth, N. H. On her maternal side she is the granddaughter of the late McPherson LeMoyne, Seigneur of Isle aux Grues, Province of Quebec, Canada.

MR. MORSS IS THE ELDER son of Mr. and Mrs. Everett Morss of 115 Commonwealth ave. He is a graduate of the Harvard Class of 1922 and a member of the Delphic Club, the D. K. E., the Harvard, Tennis and Racquet, and Eastern Yacht Clubs.

GERMAN SPY IN HUB TO SEEK JAIL DATA

Baron Hermann Buderus von Carlshausen, 26, native of Alsace-Lorraine, who came into prominence in 1916 when at the age of 14 it was alleged, he carried the bomb which was used to blow up the Welland canal in Canada from German agents in Washington to a German spy at the canal, is in Boston today.

He cames seeking evidence upon which to base a bill to be presented to the United States Senate asking payment for the time he spent in jails and internment camps because of his alleged pro-German activities during the World War.

Accompanied by his wife, the former Lee Roberts of musical comedy fame, and their nine-months-old daughter, the little Baroness Martha Ingeborg Leonia Buderus von Carlshausen, the Baron is at the Elk's Hotel.

The youthful spy suspect stated today he has been arrested on suspicion by federal authorities more times than he can remember. On several occasions he escaped. Several times he failed to escape. Early in 1919 while attempting to escape from the detention camp for aliens at Fort Ogelthorpe, Ga., he was shot in the foot.

He has had a colorful career. After the United States entered the World War he sold more than $1,000,000 worth of Liberty bonds, he said. He has worked as a newspaper man and has written sons and poems.

YOUTH CONFESSES TO SLAYING FARMHAND

St. Armand, Que., April 20 (AP)—A youth, whose name is withheld, has confessed to the slaying of Harvey Dupont, 23-year-old laborer of this place, whose battered body was found in the village dump last week, provincial authorities announced today. The confessed slayer, who is 19 years old, told detectives he killed Dupont with a monkey wrench and robbed him of a gold watch and $42.

According to the confession, both Dupont and the slayer had been drinking heavily for several days prior to the crime. Dupont had drawn $250 from a bank a few days before the murder, but the confession says only $42 was found on his person. The gold watch was sold to a garage man at Swanton, Vt., a few hours after the slaying.

CANADA FIGHTS U. S. MISSISSIPPI RIVER PLAN

Washington, April 20 (INS)—Plans for the Mississippi Valley deep waterway development were tied in a knot today by Canada's refusal to sanction diversion of Lake Michigan waters to the Chicago sanitary district. Canada contends the Cricago diversion must be stopped. Two years' correspondence on the subject between Ottawa and Washington was made public today.

Twice within a week Canada has revealed her intention of blocking waterway projects until the United States guarantees adequate protection of her St. Lawrence waterpower rights.

RESERVE BANKS CAUSE STOCK SELLING RUSH

Blocks of 1000 to 10,000 shares of speculative favorites were thrown on the market at the opening in Wall Street today. Losses of $1 to $7 a share resulted over a wide list.

The selling was inspired by the unexpected increase from 4 to 4½ per cent in the rediscount rates of the Chicago and Boston Federal Reserve Banks. It was also due in part to the unusually large increase of nearly $135,000,000 in brokers' loans last week.

The selling flurry quieted down at the end of the first quarter of an hour.

Buying operations were evidently launched at that time on a considerable scale. Big blocks were snapped up at rising prices.

Numerous issues rapidly recovered all or most of their early losses. U. S. Steel was up from the day's low, $1.12, at $147.12. General Motors was up from its low, , $2, at $190.75, and Radio advanced $6 at $181.50.

FLIERS SCHLEE AND BROCK INJURED IN AUTO CRASH

HUNDREDS DEAD IN BULGARIAN QUAKE AREA

Sofia, Bulgaria, April 20 (AP)—Death, destitution and insanity stalked through Southeastern Bulgaria today in the wake of a series of earthquakes that devastated the region.

More than 100 bodies were counted in Philippopolis and neighborhood. How many persons were buried beneath the ruins was not known. To calculate the number of injured was impossible as the population fled panic stricken to the countryside.

It was believed that Philippopolis, second city in size in Bulgaria, would furnish the highest casualty list. Only the higher part of the city, about a quarter of a mile across, was undamaged. The remainder was destroyed or rendered too dangerous to occupy.

In many villages only a few houses stand among the ruins. The people were in a state of deplorable destitution. Many were driven insane by what they witnessed.

Hills were moved. Their contours were altered. Underground reservoirs broke through in places and water and sand gushed forth.

At Satybegovo and Manole fissures were opened in the ground. Water spouted from the clefts to the height of three feet.

Bridges were shattered. The railway tracks in many places were twisted. Roadbeds sank six feet.

Prince Now Combines Air Stunts With Falls

London, April 20 (INS)—Despite his numerous falls—29 to date—the Prince of Wales is participating in more races this year than ever before. Within two weeks he rode on an average of a race every other day. During that time he had only three falls.

The prince is having more acrobatic tumbles than formerly. In previous days he had just ordinary croppers. Now, however, he often turns a somersault in the air when tossed over his horse's head.

Contrary to popular belief, it is not poor riding that causes the prince so many accidents. He rides in the most difficult races where his mount has to take high jumps and long bounds over water courses. Even a Texas cowboy could not ride over such fields without mishap. The horse falls and the prince falls with it.

The prince is a daring rider, although he does not ride in the same fashion as the cowboys on his Canadian ranch. He rides with short stirrups, while a cowpuncher rides with long stirrups so that he sits tight to the saddle all the time.

NEW OIL PROBE LOADED WITH 'DYNAMITE'

Washington, April 20 (INS)—A brand new senatorial oil investigation into the leasing of the government's fabulously rich Salt Creek field in Wyoming was in prospect today following introduction of a resolution of inquiry by Sen. Norris of Nebraska, Republican insurgent leader.

The inquiry may be loaded with political dynamite for both major parties. The Wilson administration first leased the tract and the Harding administration later gave Harry F. Sinclair a contract for all royalty oil coming from the field.

The Sinclair contract was negotiated by former Secretary of the Interior Albert B. Fall, seven months after Fall got $233,000 in Liberty bonds from Sinclair and in the same month that the Elk Hills reserve was leased to Edwin L. Doheny.

The Salt Creek field, termed the "richest oil reserve in the world," has been the subject of debate in the Senate for several weeks, since Senator Robinson (R.) of Indiana, launched a one-man drive to "take the oil scandal out of the November election."

The Wilson administration came under fire when Robinson attacked the original leasing of the Salt Creek field by former Secretary of the Interior Franklin K. Lane.

Robinson read a memorandum by Robert C. Bell, former Democratic assistant attorney-general, condemning the leases as fraudulent. Bell charged all the applicants were guilty of fraud. His protests were ignored in the leasing of the field to the Midwest Refining Company and other concerns. In all, Lane granted 125 leases.

The Harding administration came into the picture when Fall abrogated a contract for the royalty oil due the government on these leases and made a new one assigning it to Sinclair. Under it, Sinclair has been obtaining 2,000,000 to 5,000,000 barrels of oil from the Government annually.

MRS. KNAPP'S SISTER IN BEDFORD HAS RECOVERED

Mrs. Mary L. Bodkin of Bedford, sister of former Secretary of State Florence E. S. Knapp of New York, has completely recovered from illness said to have been caused by the excitement attending the grand jury investigation of her sister's conduct of the 1925 census, but declined today to say whether or not she would appear as a witness next Monday when the case is resumed.

Of seven relatives of the former secretary who were employed on the census and received more than $25,000, only one has taken the stand. She is Mrs. Helen B. Smith, a sister-in-law.

LINDY WINS FAST ACTION WITH AIR BILL

By JAMES T. WILLIAMS, JR.

Washington, April 20—What Colonel Charles A. Lindbergh says about aviation counts far more with Congress than what many Senators and Representatives and experts of the War Department say on the same subject.

Witness as an illustration the promptness with which a unanimous report has come to the House of Representatives from the committee on military affairs in favor of giving Colonel Lindbergh's flying comrades in the regular army what he says they ought to have. That is rank and pay commensudate with the service they render at great risk to their own lives.

BILL INTRODUCED.

Representative Furlow of Minnesota, who flew the colors overseas during the war, introduced a bill along the lines recommended by Col. Lindbergh. The colonel also appeared as a witness before the military committee in favor of righting the wrongs from which the flying officers of the army long suffered.

His testimony so impressed the members of the committee that they united on a favorable report of the Furlow bill. If House and Senate pass that bill the credit for its enactment into law will be chiefly due to Col. Lindbergh.

No better reasons for this legislation have yet been given by experienced legislators or experts in the War Department than Col. Lindbergh gave when he appeared before the committee to appeal for a square deal for his flying comrades of the army.

SPEECH WAS CONCISE.

He said more in a few words than many a Senator and Representative in Congress has been able to say in a long speech on the subject. His argument was characteristically straightforward and concise.

As a result, the Furlow bill would do just what Col. Lindbergh said ought to be done—take the air corps directly out of the general promotion list and create a separate promotion list for the flying officers of the army.

WOULD BAR 'DAWN' HERE

New York, April 20 (AP)—A private showing of the British photoplay "Dawn," at which James W. Gerard, former ambassador to Germany, and Charles A. Oberwager, president of the United German Societies of New York, were guests, has only confirmed their belief that the picture should not be shown in this country. They said they found it worse than they had expected, and that if presented it might seriously menace international relations.

Gerard said legal action to prevent its showing would be taken as soon as the necessary steps had been decided upon. The film depicts the life and execution of Edith Cavell, British war nurse, who was shot by the Germans in Belgium during the World War.

73 REBELS KILLED BY FEDERALS IN MEXICO

Mexico City, April 20 (AP)—Seventy-three insurgents have been slain by Federal forces in four engagements in the State of Jalisco. Dispatches from Guadalajara today announced the death of 55, and military reports told of the death of 18 others.

El Universal Grafico said Martinus Tristchler, Archbishop of Yucatan, and Carlos Mendez, director of the newspaper El Diario De Yucatan, had been charged by the government with violation of the religious laws. The Archbishop is in Havana and Senor Menendez is understood to have gone on a vacation trip to the United States.

TWO PERISH IN FOREST FIRES

New York, April 20 (AP)—Driven by winds, which at times attained a velocity of 60 miles an hour, forest and grass fires today had taken two, possibly four, lives and destroyed thousands of acres of woodlands and close to a hundred homes in central New York, Long Island, eastern Pennsylvania, southern New Jersey and northern Delaware.

Many residents of Barnegat, N. J., had loaded their valuables into boats on Barnegat bay as the fire circle closed in on the town, ready to flee if the hundreds of volunteer workers were unable to check the flames.

The deaths occurred in fighting the fire about Barnegat. Frank Ewers, 30, of Waretown, was burned to death when his home was destroyed, and Vincent Clayton, 50, a member of the United States Coast Guard at Spring lake, was fatally injured when he fell from a fire truck.

Unconfirmed reports were that Tony Baruca of Barnegat and a man named Camburn at Manahawkin, N. J., also were burned to death.

Jesse Bozarth, New Jersey district fire warden, and Earl Eldgeway, both of Barnegat, were seriously burned fighting the blaze.

DEL RIOS AGREE TO BECOME DIVORCED

Los Angeles, April 20 (AP)—Dolores Del Rio, motion picture star today sped toward Sonora in Mexico her native land, in quest of a divorce from Jaime Del Rio, signalizing the breaking up of a third film colony romance that had its inception in the Southern republic.

The divorce complaint will be filed at once, Mrs. Del Rio's lawyer said, and at the same time depositions to support her charges of incompatibility will be filed. Then the film star will return to Hollywood to await the expiration of the legal period before a decree can be granted.

Del Rio, who went to New York five months ago in a "trial separation," will not contest the action and will be represented merely by an attorney.

At the time of his departure for the East he had declared it was because he desired to follow his own career—that of writing—without the handicap of being known only as Dolores Del Rio's husband.

Both are members of wealthy families of Mexico City. They were married seven years ago, soon after Dolores, then 15, had completed her education in a convent.

In May, 1925, Edwin Carewe, director, and Mary Aiken, screen actress, were married in Juarez, Mex., while the wedding of Bert Lytell and Claire Windsor, both of the films, who accompanied them, took place the next day. The quartet was chaperoned by Manuel Reachi and Agnes Ayres the film actress. Miss Ayres and Reachi previously had married.

The Carewes continued to Mexico City, and there, at a social function, the director met Mrs. Del Rio and persuaded her to try her fortune in the films.

Since then Reachi and Miss Ayres, as well as the Lytells, have been divorced. Carewe's suit for a divorce, recently filed in Mazatlan, Sinaloa, Mexico, still is pending.

Del Rio Will Not Contest the Suit

New York, April 20 (AP)—Jaime Del Rio said here today that he would not contest the divorce of Dolores Del Rio.

"I owe her a deep debt of gratitude for seven years of perfect and happy married life, in which she has been an ideal wife and sweetheart," he added.

He said that her action naturally was a shock to him but added:

"I feel that it represents her best judgment. Our professional lives run along entirely different lines and since my admiration for my wife is sincere I can only abide by her decision that the incompatibility of our marriage now is bad for her and her future, and for myself.

CALL DEFENSE WITNESS IN GAUDET SLAYING

Hartford, Ct., April 20 (AP)—The state today rested its case against Dr. Harold N. Guilfoyle, who has been on trial since Tuesday for the murder of Mrs. Maximin Gaudet on January 8, outside the Guilfoyle apartment.

The defense called as its first witness Coroner J. Gilbert Calhoun. The defense believes that discrepancies will be discovered in the statements made by some state witnesses before the coroner and before the court. The statements of Mr. and Mrs. Algernon Sidney were marked for identification.

SKIPPER IS BACK AFTER SHAKING '13TH HOODOO'

Capt. Jerry Cadogan smiled today as he warped his command, the Dollar liner President Hayes, into her berth at the army base, ending the 14th voyage around the world.

"I'm a great believer in 'this 13 thing,'" he grinned as he reflected back along the trip that followed his hoodoo voyage that lost him the name of "Lucky Cadogan" when he struck port before.

"My 13th trip, you will remember, consisted of a fire, some crashes that put many a dent in the vessel, any number of storms and what not. This trip I hold up as an example of the good fortune that gave me the name you fellows christened me, 'Lucky,'" he told reporters.

Producing the log, he showed that 14 storms had been avoided on the trip, which was free of all hard luck.

The present trip included an exceptional "passenger," a globe-circling collie dog. The dog is owned by Mrs. L. N. Howe of Cohasset.

Stand on Heads for Night in Folding Bed; Ask $40,000

Los Angeles, April 20 (AP)—A night spent standing on their heads after being suddenly folded up by a patent bed was the basis of a $40,000 suit on trial here today.

Mr. and Mrs. Bruce Carter, the plaintiffs named a Los Angeles apartment house owner as defendant. Mrs. Carter asked $35,000 and the husband $5,000 for the night's experience.

Theodore Wold, inventor of the bed testified how the device worked but the judge indicated he might demand a demonstration in court.

FIND EX-MAINE JAIL HEAD SANE IN DEATH CASE

New York, April 20 (AP)—A criminal commission today reported it had found sane Cecil Clyde Campbell, former army officer under an indictment for the murder of Mary L. McLean, in the Grand hotel last February 6. Consequently Campbell will probably go to trial within a few weeks.

The commission reported that while was sane at the time of the killing he was in such nervous condition that he is not believed to have realized the nature of his act when he slew with a hammer the woman to whom he claims he was marrier.

Campbell, the commission was told, was divorced from a former wife who is now living with their child in Portland, Me.

The accused man at one time was superintendent of the state reformatory for men at South Windham, Me., and at other times had occupied positions of trust in half a dozen states.

Campbell was arrested in Philadelphia a few days after the killing.

BEANS!

A wonderful new kind with the real "baked-out-of-doors" taste

a cup of molasses
a cup of brown sugar
a layer of sugar-cured pork
a layer of beans
a layer of sugar-cured pork
a layer of beans

Now you can enjoy beans like those baked in the ground in the Maine woods

Never did baked beans have such flavor as those old-time beans baked in the outdoor oven—the bean hole—of the Maine woods lumber camps.

The richest of ingredients went into the big-bellied iron bean pot—lots of sugar-cured pork, molasses and brown sugar. Then the pot was buried in the bean hole to cook all night in a bed of pine embers.

For the first time, now, that wonderful woods flavor is reproduced. In Bean Hole Beans!

They're like no other beans you've ever tasted! Enjoy this new deliciousness today. Your grocer has Bean Hole Beans—medium and large size.

Girls Swoon at Revere Battle to Tune of "She's All Mine"

Although the orchestra seemingly was right, the question of 'whose girl' remained unsettled today after Joseph Haddad, 20, of Washington st., Boston, and William J. Doyle, 31, of Everett st., Arlington, had been fined $20 each for mutual assault and battery.

"She's Mine, All Mine," the orchestra in a Revere dance hall broadcast early yesterday while Joe and Will battled on the floor over mutual claims to a wispy little lady dancer.

Will, who was dancing with the girl at the time, objected to Joe's claim that she was his girl. Then the fight began. Several girls swooned, but not the lady over whom the battle was fought. She fled in the direction of the orchestra that was playing "She's Mine, All Mine."

Police claimed the battlers for Chelsea court.

Iowa City, Ia., April 20 (INS)—Mary Miller, 70, who for 60 years posed as a man, is again "George Miller" and has returned to work as a laborer on a farm near here.

Miss Miller's sex became known when she was taken ill two weeks ago and brought to a hospital here. The moment she was dismissed she again put on men's clothing.

Miss Miller gave as her reason for the strange masquerade that "man's lot is far easier than woman's."

Early in life she was forced to earn her own livelihood and found it easier to do this "as a man," she said.

"He'll grow out of it"

So many mothers dismiss the little aches and pains of their boys and girls by saying cheerfully, "Oh, just growing pains—nothing to bother about."

This is a sensible attitude to take in many cases—surely better than a morbid watching of symptoms. But if there are little things wrong with your child's feet and arches, please believe that prompt attention to them is the only safe course to take.

For the small arch pains that children often have, frequently lead to much more important arch pains later. The little turning of their ankles now means that unless scientific support is given to those pliable bones and muscles immediately, there may be serious malformation later on.

For generations it has been one of our most serious duties to provide shoes that are specifically designed to correct improper tendencies in the growth of children's feet and arches. Coward shoes for boys and girls are a byword in homes where the desirability of normal, healthy foot-growth is intelligently understood.

The illustration in the circle shows how a child's feet look in Coward Shoes. Note the upright position of the ankles.

FORD PLANE ON WAY TO AID SEA FLIERS

The plane on which the Canadian press reporter returned from the island brought out the first newsreel pictures to be made of the damaged plane since it landed after its ocean flight a week ago today.

"As soon as our machine is repaired," Capt. Koehl told the reporter, "we shall fly to New York as first intended. En route we shall very likely call at Murray Bay and at Montreal."

The captain then spoke of plans for the return flight to Germany.

The reporter, James Stanton, of the Quebec Chronicle-Telegraph, went to Greenly Island in a Canadian Airways plane piloted by Romeo Vachon.

Capt. Koehl and Baron Ehrenfried von Huenefeld were delighted to see them and walked down to the shore to greet them. The ocean fliers posed for pictures, which were rushed away in the newspaper airplane.

The Germans were in excellent health and high spirits. Capt. Koehl received a slight cut on the forehead at the bump of the Bremen's landing on the island's reservoir, but the wound was of no moment and the baron escaped injury entirely, as did their Irish companion, Maj. James Fitzmaurice.

"It did not even force my monocle out of its place," the baron boasted with evident pride in his careful English.

Ford Plane Off With Parts to Repair Bremen

Detroit, April 20 (INS)—Headed for Greenly Island, a big trimotor Ford plane took off at 7:07 a. m. today to carry repair parts to the disabled transatlantic Bremen. The plane was carrying fuel sufficient for a 2000 mile flight.

The plane was equipped for the flight here by Floyd Bennett and Bernt Balchen, chief pilots of Commodore Richard E. Byrd's proposed South Pole expedition, who were at the controls when the machine took the air.

The first stop will be made at Murray Bay, Quebec, where the plane of Herta Junkers, daughter of the Bremen builder, was forced down when she started with repair parts to Greenly island.

At Murray bay skis will be placed on the Ford relief plane and the replacement parts will be transferred from Herta Junkers' plane to the Ford ship.

It is hoped to repair the Bremen so the German fliers may make the trip from Greenly Island to New Bremen Crew Hopes to Make Early Hop for U. S.

Quebec, Que., April 20 (INS)—That Capt. Hermann Koehl, Baron Ehrenfried von Huenefeld and Maj. James E. Fitzmaurice, the first fliers to span the North Atlantic in a westward flight, will reach New York in the early part of next week seemed assured today.

Everything is in readiness for rushing repair parts and fuel to Greenly Island, where the Junkers craft Bremen is stranded, lightly damaged and with practically no fuel in its tanks.

The only thing which may further delay rescue plans is a raging blizzard now sweeping the region between this city and Murray Bay.

A trimotored Ford monoplane, piloted by Brent Balchen and Floyd Bennett, crack pilots of Comdr. Richard E. Byrd's Antarctic expedition took off for Murray Bay from Detroit today with parts needed to repair the damaged Bremen.

The Ford ship, a huge affair of the same type Byrd will use on his polar expedition, will pick up Maj. Fitzmaurice [illegible] the repair parts and fuel at Murray Bay and then make another flight to Greenly Island. It is [illegible] that Miss Herta Junkers [illegible] Greenly Island.

It is not likely, according to Robert Cannon, president of the Transcontinental Airways Company, that the Bremen will make the [illegible] New York without a stop [illegible] amount of fuel which [illegible] taken to Greenly Island will not be sufficient for the 1700 mile flight.

If it is found that the Bremen cannot be put [illegible] condition for the flight to New York, the three transatlantic fliers probably will be taken to New York in the Ford plane.

BARON'S STORY OF FLIGHT

[illegible]

Somewhere in these barren wastes of the north and beneath the billows of the Atlantic the story of those valiant attempts lies locked in silence. It is with deepest reverence and with all humility that we bow in tribute and with no boastfulness that we find ourselves able to penetrate the veil of Providence and to tell their story to the world.

A Story of Success

[illegible]

HOPE FADES IN GLOOM

[illegible]

At Mercy of Storm

[illegible]

"Approach land while it still is possible, our oil tank seems to leak."

[illegible]

In the meantime the storm had become so terrific that the machine nearly stood upright in the air. It was tossed about like a frail little bird we have observed in a high wind.

[illegible]

It shone in the night like a beacon of hope. My thought flew home. What did they think of us? My mother who had lost my father three days before our first flight had put a little heart in my pocket before I started from home. I repeated to myself.

"We Were Saved!"

[illegible] Then came a terrible period for me. Lights appeared. There came visions. The coast. A lighthouse. Deception after deception. Will o' the wisps to deceive us who hoped.

[illegible]

We were on the lookout. What he mistook for a boat was a house on the coast. We still had some benzol. The house came nearer. A lighthouse appeared. Men and dog were seen. We were saved. A few minutes later Koehl set the machine down on the ice.

they expect to generate intolerance with which to poison the minds of the laity. The order was a mere gesture given at a time when the klan was rapidly disintegrating and something was needed to direct national attention to it.

The real unmasking of the klan is taking place right in the federal court for whom I was giving this deposition and that is the first time an effort has ever been made to unmask it. Any number of times I have been approached and an effort has been made to induce me to involve the names of prominent klansmen throughout the country in an expose of the klan but they will accomplish nothing.

Q.—Give specific instances of the klan taking a part in politics? A.—The klan has practically

In 1922 when I was at the head of the klan and had some rather distinctive victories in the State, the statement was made that headquarters would be moved to Washington. And thereafter the headquarters of the klan slowly but eventually and completely moved to Washington, D. C.

Q.—W[illegible] been [illegible] public office?

A.—One official was a former janitor in the State House. Another was formerly a deputy county clerk. A third was formerly a pettifogging lawyer at Marion.

She made me Feel Old.

Joking and laughing with my husband. I hadn't been able to make Dan laugh that way for years.

Then, what do you think I learned? She was my age! Imagine it. Yet she seemed so young . . .

Every woman knows how her physical condition makes her draggy and dull. Yet so often she hesitates about using ordinary laxatives . . .

Feen-a-mint is different!

It is just like a bit of delicious chewing gum. You don't swallow it—you chew it!

Its magic laxative principle is released slowly, the way science meant it to be released. It actually becomes part of the digestive fluids—does not disturb digestion. It works with the body—not against it!

It won't torture you with griping pains. It won't poison or weaken the system. It won't enslave you to laxative pills. Begin today to correct constipation this modern scientific way.

ESTELLE BLAMED FOR DEMPSEY-KEARNS ROW

New York, April 20 (INS)—The fly in the ointment that [illegible]alved the friendship between Jack Dempsey and Jack Kearns was pictured today as the beauteous Estelle Taylor, movie actress and wife of the former heavyweight champion.

The two Jacks were like the famous mytholo[illegible] [illegible]

Kearns admits that his contract with Dempsey had run out when the latter fought Gene Tunney, but says that he is entitled to one third of the proceeds of this match, as it was one of the things he had "paved the way for" while he had the fighter signed up. The trial is expected to last a week.

Style Authority

BARTLEY & SONS, London Bootmakers for more than a hundred years, have actually made shoes for the present Prince of Wales, his father, the present King of England, and his grandfather, King Edward, and other members of the Royal Family, past and present. That's why we went direct to Bartley.

Bartley describes the Sole of this Shoe as an oak bark tanned "middling substance," and that is what we used. The Upper Leather in Bartley's original is an Imported Calfskin tanned in Osterwik, Holland, and we are using the same tannage. The lasts are identical in both measurement and appearance, and the design is the same.

One reason is, Bartley averages Three pairs a day, and we average Three Thousand

Why You Can Pick Them, Even In the Dark!

Three types of leaves grow on the tobacco plant. The heavy, coarse top leaves, irritating to the throat. The withered ground leaves, without taste or aroma. And the heart leaves, rich in cool and delightful smoking qualities. These golden ripe heart leaves give to OLD GOLD their honey-like smoothness, mellow fragrance and aroma. That is why you can tell the difference . . . even in the dark!

'Bad Boys' of Sport Few, Says Tunney

By GENE TUNNEY

WHILE I was visiting the various baseball camps in Florida during the past winter, sporting writers unanimously complained that a great reform wave had come over baseball players, and that the colorful incidents which resulted in so much good fiction a few years ago were no more.

The fact that a few of the outstanding revelers of the past had dropped back into quiet routines did not seem to me surprising.

As a whole there never were but a few Peck's Bad Boys in any of the camps, and they were known chiefly for isolated and often exaggerated escapades because of their prominence in actual competition.

As a matter of fact there did not appear to be any reform wave at all in the goody goody sense. It is simply a case of some of the leading athletes of today having acquired a business acumen they lacked a few years ago.

THERE is nothing remarkable about that, for many a business man who sows wild oats on his way to the top, quits later, not perhaps out of any great spirit of repentance, but because he finds it is troublesome in his new role to have rumors circulating to the effect that he is not all that he should be.

In the case of athletes there are always constant predictions that they are "in rough" about the time they win their first big success, so if they begin to conserve their money and strength more than they did in the flush of their youth they are more than [illegible]

BASEBALL camps, however, were full of reform stories this year. [illegible] sports writers commented on [illegible] Some of the baseball [illegible] positively wailing because [illegible] steadfastly refused to [illegible] and stage [illegible] that would make good copy.

Not long ago to engage in sports in a professional way practically [illegible] the participants to a life of riotous living. They had to spend more time for wealth [illegible] friends and spend it more [illegible] of their [illegible]

BASEBALL in the old days demanded almost as much from famous players. The players of the Casey at the Bat type were among the characters of the Great White Ways of the country in the '90s, but they couldn't earn enough [illegible] to make their exploits [illegible] remembered.

Only now that their pay is commensurate with the interest the public has in [illegible] watched with [illegible] interest.

But as a class athletes are developing more and more of this [illegible] sense which precludes dissipated lives as a rule, even though training may be broken now and then. In turn, it is the public interest in sport that has caused the athlete to set a greater value upon their [illegible] formerly.

The [illegible] has almost passed and with him much of the [illegible] of the public, and even managers who hired spies to trail their stars and otherwise good them into jumping over the traces at every chance.

Sport is [illegible] the better not for its reform but [illegible]

SAMMY BAKER PICKED TO DEFEAT CLYDE HULL

By JACK CONWAY

LET 'er shoot, Sergeant!

The boys who like to see a real punching duel will sit in at Mechanics Building tonight where Sergt. Sammy Baker will battle Clyde Hull in a ten-round mill at an Argonne A. A. offering.

Baker is the sweetest puncher in the welterweight division. When he cops them right, they stay clipped, as the boys in the gallery say.

Just now Sammy [illegible] to remain on Victory Trail as he has been named as the [illegible] of Joe Dundee, world's welterweight champion. These birds will step over the hurdles in a [illegible] in New York in June if Hull doesn't upset the beans. The dope shows that Hull is quite a hard hitter himself. He had Pete Latzo on the floor at Dallas at a time when the latter was world's welterweight champion. He also cracked Johnny Indrisano's jaw with one of his right hand smacks.

In the event [illegible] win tonight Walk Miller, his manager, will demand the match with Dundee.

As the boys have something to fight over the mill should be jammed with action.

BAKER IS PICKED TO WIN.

THAT'S only half of it. There will be another ten-round whirl between Arthur Flynn of Lawrence and Nando Tassi, light heavyweight champion of Italy. Flynn has come along at a lively clip since he went under the management of Billy Duffy. He will meet rugged opposition tonight as Tassi is one of those birds who laughs off ordinary punches.

Two six-round bouts and four four rounders will support these two ten rounders and the event should give the fans plenty of thrills.

Al Beauregard, popular New Haven boy, who has won 11 straight fights returns here to meet Jake Zeraby of Lynn, the [illegible] boy athlete, who has won [illegible] in a row, in one of the six rounders. In the second, Andy [illegible] of Lawrence, winner of 10 straight, faces [illegible] of [illegible] who has piled up a record [illegible] in a row.

Joe Pian, champion of the Atlantic fleet, who [illegible] from the Philippine Islands, makes his debut here in a four rounder when he faces Billy O'Leary of South Boston. In another four rounder Al [illegible] of New Haven crosses with Ace [illegible] of Alabama. These [illegible] rivals [illegible] met here but the bout ended in a [illegible].

'Finish Swing With Care'—Mrs. Horn

By MIRIAM BURNS HORN
Women's National Golf Champion

THE big mistake so many persons make is the failure to finish a shot properly. They study the backswing with great precision, feeling if that is correct the rest must take care of itself.

SCORE OF BIG SCHOOL GAMES TOMORROW

Schoolboy baseball faces its second busy day of the week tomorrow. More than 20 games are on the list. Patriots' Day [illegible] a fine chance to look over most of the leading nines, although some of the games were interrupted by the afternoon rain.

The headliner on tomorrow's card looms as the Everett-Newton game at the Garden City. Newton was to have played on the holiday with Cambridge Latin but the game was called off and will be played today.

Newton is [illegible] assignment in two straight games against teams of the calibre of Cambridge Latin and Everett, who are sure to be in the thick of the battle for the Suburban League crown.

Newton will rely on [illegible] or Wilson to stop the heavy hitting Cambridge Latin [illegible] some heavy [illegible] Hibbard, [illegible] low [illegible] Spencer [illegible] and [illegible]

EVERETT DOING WELL.

Everett's team is doing well, although they lost Jack [illegible], who was one of the best first basemen in the vicinity. Fisher is through because he has reached the age limit of 20. Di Angelo, the Everett twirler, is a pip and will be sent after Newton.

Brookline, after many embarrassing upsets, is out to show its true self against Somerville and Al Blanche tomorrow afternoon at Somerville. Blanche is one of the best, and should be able to set the Wealthy Towners back without [illegible] be cut.

Bill Pendergast's [illegible] High nine will play at Lawrence, and as they had a [illegible] their belts, might be able to give the Lawrence team a good [illegible]. Norwood has beaten Natick and Waltham. Natick and Waltham aren't the best teams that could be selected but Norwood looked [illegible] impressive in both their [illegible]. Malden won't prove as soft as Natick and Waltham now that [illegible] Kerwin, their captain is back in his stride.

Boston College high school will journey to Melrose to tackle the high school there. The junior Eagles of Art McManus look very good. B. C. H. had a fine nine last year with Sims, Ryan and Froton as battery men but all three have graduated [illegible] and gardeners.

Closer than a tattooed anchor

P.A. and I are like that. Closer than the paper on the wall. P.A. is so companionable so genuinely friendly. When you open the tidy red tin, you get a fragrant notice of how friendly it's going to be in a pipe. Then you tamp in a load and apply the match.

Man, that taste! Cool as an Eskimo's front porch. Refreshing as arctic sunshine. Mellow and mild and long-burning, with a full, rich tobacco-body that puts you next to a new kind of pipe-joy. Here's a smoke that you can write home about. It's got everything!

They tell me more P.A. is smoked than any other brand. I believe it, and I think I know why. If you don't know the deep-down satisfaction of a jimmy-pipe and Prince Albert, you've been missing the best bet in the whole tobacco-line. I'm giving it to you straight, Men.

There are TWO full ounces of smoke-contentment in every tidy red tin.

Care of Baby's Skin

By Chas A. L. Reed, M. D.,
Former President of the American Medical Association.

A NUMBER of years ago a preparation known as stearate of zinc was very popular as a baby powder. It could be lightly rubbed on the skin, forming a kind of protective film. But it was soon found that, as a skin protective, the remedy was worse than the disease.

Emmeline Coolidge, after inquiries addressed to child specialists, general practitioners and hospitals, a thousand of each, found that zinc stearate, which often forms the base of infant powders, deserves the bad name it holds. Among the 4000 answers to the questionnaire 229 cases were reported where zinc stearate had caused asthma, bronchitis, pneumonia, convulsions or zinc poisoning.

All the authorities laid stress on the importance of avoiding highly scented, gritty and impure powders, and of selecting one that will not lump, cake, swell, clog the pores, irritate or cause any kind of p[illegible] effect, however [illegible].

They warn mothers against vegetable powders because these, although smooth originally, are liable to swell within the pores and interfere with the excretory functions of the skin.

There are too many powders easily obtainable which contain strong scent, grit, asbestine, [illegible] extraneous dirt, [illegible], lime, lead and even arsenic, all of which are certainly harmful to the infant skin.

FAMOUS COMPOSERS

By COZETTE DOUGLASS

NIELS WILHELM GADE, who has been called the founder of the Scandinavian school of music, was the only son of an instrument maker. Gade was born in Copenhagen on February 22, 1817, and was destined to follow his father's trade. However, violin lessons and a frequent attendance at the theatre served to strengthen his determination to become a musician.

He was placed under the instruction of Wexschall, then the leader of the court orchestra, and later under Wyse and Berggreen, but he was to a great extent, self taught in theory.

At the age of sixteen, Gade appeared as a concert violinist. In 1841 his overture "Nachklange von Ossian" took first prize at the competition of the Copenhagen Musical Society. This also won for the young composer the attention of the king, who gave Gade a stipend which enabled him to go to Leipzig and Paris. In 1842 the performance of one of his symphonies by Mendelssohn paved the way for his [illegible] reception in Leipzig in [illegible].

Gade's association with Schumann and Mendelssohn undoubtedly fanned his genius to a glowing flame. During Mendelssohn's absence Gade replaced him [illegible] the Gewandhaus concerts, and on Mendelssohn's death succeeded him as regular conductor.

[illegible] married the daughter of [illegible] J. P. E. Hartmann.

[illegible] conferred upon him by the king. He was also honored by the University of Cambridge.

Gade was essentially a romanticist, but his music is finished and polished, lyrical rather than dramatic.

Gade died in Copenhagen on December 21, 18[illegible].

Martha Lee Tells of Shower for Bride

Martha Lee radio chat as broadcast from station WLOE.

IT is to be hoped that April will not feel obliged to suit the day to the occasion and shower rain on the guests who are invited to the shower you are giving for the spring brides of your acquaintance.

Martha Lee

One kind of shower is enough for one day, particularly if it is a basket shower which is a delightful and an unusual variety of this ever popular form of entertaining.

There is a place in a bride's new home for every sort of basket—from the practical clothes basket and hamper to the dainty sewing basket. There are baskets for marketing, baskets for flowers, baskets for firewood and even baskets for sweets.

All of them will be represented at the shower and many more as well. If the hostess herself will provide the clothes basket, the gifts from the guests can be sent on ahead and packed in the clothes basket to be presented to the bride at the proper moment.

Just before or just after lunch is a good time for the presentation.

The luncheon table should of course be basket trimmed. A large basket of spring flowers for the center with individual baskets at each place also filled with flowers, makes a most attractive background.

If preferred, the small baskets at each place may be used for nuts or candies.

For the menu, choose appropriate dishes such as

Fruit Cocktail in Orange Baskets
Chicken Loaf
Buttered Peas in Mashed Potato Baskets
Hot Rolls
Cake Baskets filled with Fresh Strawberries Garnished with Ice Cream

If a salad is preferred instead of the hot dishes, use one of the following: Tomato stuffed with [illegible] meat; grapefruit [illegible] filled with fruit salad; cream puff shell filled with chicken salad.

Handles for the tomatoes can be fashioned out of green peppers or celery. If the latter is used, make a square handle by sticking two upright pieces of celery in opposite sides of the tomato and fitting a cross piece between the two for the top of the handle.

For the grapefruit, use handles cut from rounds of grapefruit peel.

The cream puff shells may have their handles made out of pie crust—cut in strips, twisted and baked in a semi-circle. Or they may get along without handles—using instead a garnish of pastry or watercress around the edge.

A recipe for cream puffs which is particularly satisfactory for basket shells is given below, also a recipe and directions for making the cake baskets for dessert.

CREAM PUFFS—8 tbsp. butter, 1 c. boiling water, 1 c. sifted flour, 4 eggs, salt.

Bring water to a boil in saucepan, and add butter and stir until melted. Then add flour slowly, stirring vigorously all the time. Boil until it forms a paste which clears the pan. Turn into a mixing bowl and when cool add eggs one at a time, beating each in thoroughly before adding next.

After last egg is added, beat vigorously about 5 minutes. Then drop by spoonfuls on greased baking pan about 2 inches apart. Bake in oven 4[illegible] degrees for 15 minutes, then gradually reduce to 300 degrees. In all bake 4[illegible] minutes.

When entirely cold cut off tops. Remove any moist flakes of dough attached to shell. Fill with salad. Garnish edges with parsley or watercress and top with mayonnaise.

CAKE BASKETS—½ c. butter, 1 c. sugar, 3 eggs, 1½ c. flour, 2 tsp. baking powder, ½ tsp. salt, ½ c. milk, 1 tsp. vanilla.

Cream shortening with sugar. Add beaten eggs. Stir in milk alternately with sifted flour, salt and baking powder. Pour into well greased muffin tins or cup cake pans. Bake in a moderately hot oven, 375 degrees F.

When thoroughly cool remove cakes from pan, scoop out center (using for the bottom whichever side offers the best shape). Make handle of wire strung with tiny gum drops of various colors. Just before serving fill cake centers with fresh strawberries. Top with whipped cream (or ice cream if preferred). Serve on lace paper doilies.

Faithfully yours,
MARTHA LEE.

Correct Manners

By MRS. CORNELIUS BEECKMAN

DEAR MRS. BEECKMAN:

1. Is it proper to take pickles from the plate that is passed and to eat them with the fingers?

2. When the so-called oysters, about the size of a ten-cent piece, are served for soup, what is the proper way of taking them from the dish in which they are passed?

A SUBSCRIBER

ON the dish with the pickles should be placed, if the service is perfect, a silver utensil that is convenient for the size of the pickle. Often the double serving method is used, that is, the serving set for olives, pickles and relishes of many other kinds. This is the rather long handled, deep-bowled pierced spoon on the left, and the two pronged fork on the right. These are most convenient. If either, or both, are placed with the pickles, serve yourself, and take the pickles on to the bread-and-butter plate, or if there isn't one, to your dinner plate. If they are tiny pickles, and served dry, they may eaten with the fingers, but they are best eaten with the fork. Or, if you are accustomed to eat in the European manner, with the fork in the left hand and the knife in the right, and kept there (not readjusted after every mouthful), then you will use both utensils with the pickles, too, as you would, for instance, with a piece of endive.

2. There should be placed in the dish, or with it, a spoon for serving yourself to these crackers. If there is none, you take a few with your fingers.

DEAR MRS. BEECKMAN:

I have a friend who is to be married in a few months and I would like to know if it is proper for the groom and best man to wear light suits. It is to be a very homelike wedding in a hotel and the bride is to wear light taffeta and no veil. I think it is a matter of choice, but we would appreciate your opinion very much. The wedding is to take place at 4 or 5 o'clock.

2. Is it proper for the bride to carry a bouquet, even though she is not dressed in bridal attire?

A CONSTANT READER

IT would be much better form for the gentlemen to wear dark suits, dark blue business suits if they wish to dress informally. They could consistently wear cutaway coats and dark striped trousers. But if they do not choose to wear this formal attire, the dark suits would be much better form—more cosmopolitan in taste.

2. Yes, if she wishes to. Or she may wear a corsage. Just as she chooses. Many brides dislike to give up carrying flowers, even if they are dressed informally, and there is no reason why they should.

"You Said It, Marceline!"

By MARCELINE D'ALROY

PEOPLE love to be COMPLEX! Especially WOMEN. Men, of course would like to be, too, but most women won't LET them. Yes, most WIVES say they can see right through their husbands and there is simply NOTHING else. [illegible] nothing to get EXCITED about.

Men, of course, are more SIMPLE than women. They HAVE to be. They would not be allowed to LIVE if they cluttered up their faces for instance, with the many odd things most girls seem to think it NECESSARY to put on theirs. And a man's SHAPE too stays as it is, is his own. There is no deception about it unless it be in the SHOULDERS. Some men have those padded, I understand, and one man on [illegible] paper [illegible] for this reason that it was done merely to make his WOMEN more comfortable. That was fine!

Just to return to being SIMPLE as women are by DEGREES. All this modern talk about INFERIORITY and superiority complexes is GREAT stuff. It's just a [illegible] in which everybody wears [illegible] though most people like to think they have a COMPLEX of some sort themselves, they also want every friend to have one, because they know if they have it will make them UNCOMFORTABLE.

Hugging a complex is a sign of being somewhat SELFISH, self-centered and sensitive. To be really simple take CHARACTER. It means throwing out, throwing off, throwing away everything that clutters up one's life unnecessarily. This is hard. For, obviously, it REVEALS sharply what is left! This is the reason why so many people trim up their MOTIVES and call the net result a distinctly MODERN complex.

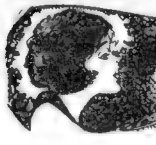
This Day in Our History

ON April 20, 1898, Congress, by joint resolution, recognized the independence of Cuba and delivered an ultimatum demanding the withdrawal of Spain from Cuba, setting noon of April 23rd as the latest date for a reply.



"Jerry" by ELENORE MEHERIN AUTHOR of "CHICKIE"

A Story of Mad Moonlight Kisses and a Wonderful Young Girl

CHAPTER 69

"HE'S worried because I've not written," said Stephanie with a delighted smile and flashing to her the [illegible].

She handed the telegram to Jerry and standing [illegible] her back, read it again over her shoulder:

"No letter for 10 days. Are you ill? Please wire [illegible]. Worried by [illegible]. Awfully lonesome. Miss your letters [illegible]."

Jerry turned shining eyes [illegible] into the [illegible] eyes that told so openly their joy.

"No kick against the men of today now, have you, ole dear? You could go out and give them all one large, jovial [illegible]."

Stephanie [illegible]. She was thinking how very dramatic and appealing if she were only ill and they could wire to Heinie: "Come at once or you will never see her alive again!" And if Heinie would then come flying down and implore her for his sake, to live!

"What will you wire back?"

"Oh, I sent it already. You see, this is a night message. It came this morning just after you left. So I answered this: 'So pleased you have missed my letters. I was [illegible] and [illegible]. I'm not ill, but very busy being well and worked. It was more fun being good with you. Love.' 'Stephanie.'"

"A pity he's so lonely, isn't it?"

"I don't know about that. Nothing like long foggy days to make a body yearn for the sun."

"Then I should have made it 20 days without a letter instead of 10."

The 10 were enough. In the middle of the morning a few days later, a deliriously excited Stephanie called Jerry to the phone.

"Heinie's here. He didn't wait for an answer to the telegram. He thought I might be dying! He took the fastest train and came."

"Is he going to stay?"

A bright elfin laugh. "He says it all depends. Whatever that may mean."

That he was lonely enough to know what he was lonely for, thought Jerry happily.

And She Began to Count Up the Difference

And she began to count up the difference between Heinie's age and Stephanie's—about seven years. Not too much.

And she began imagining Stephanie in [illegible] and veil [illegible] that red brown hair under the white and waxy blossoms!

Of course, she, Jerry, wouldn't dream of a wedding veil. But men like Heinie—romantic, old-fashioned, good to the bone, a man who would have his bride come to him in raiment like an angel.

"I'm running ahead of myself," she thought gaily, "but how thrilling each and all of us would look."

Late Saturday afternoon—her first free moment in the week of her return—Jerry went to Saxon's office.

He was alone. The moment she opened the door, she felt a flash and tension.

He swung about with a tearing impatience, jaw set.

"Oh, you!" A young half sheepish grin in strain with relief over his tired face. He was haggard, almost gaunt, the thin hair raked back so that his eyes looked feverish and his features sharp.

"You're drawn to a line," she said eagerly, admiringly—"you're working savagely."

"I've had to. Finish tomorrow. Paul ran in some extra plans on me. I've been up nights. You never know how much you can do till someone drives you to the limit. Most of us work at 20 per cent capacity. Goad is good for my type.

"Jerry, I've been looking for you every day. Why did you make me wait so long? I thought you'd be interested in the plans, anyway."

"I'm wild to see them. I've been away and whole lives of excitement have happened."

Color dropped visibly from his cheeks. Almost inaudibly: "What has happened? You've not eloped? Jerry, are you married?"

"I wonder if that would be exciting?" she asked softly. "Peril usually is. No; I've not gone and got myself married. And I won't."

He gave an abrupt chuckling laugh and laid before her a great stack of plans. There were finished color sketches of the 13 individual units, then a group plan for the great college building scheme.

He watched intently as her eyes traced the noble proportions, the rich yet chaste designs.

'Lovely,' Said She, Forgetting His Eager Suspense

She held the group plan before her, revealing in [illegible] of design, each building a distinct artistic composition, yet each an integral part of the whole.

And the colors. This so varied yet harmonious excited her.

"I tried out [illegible] tones before I chose this [illegible]. I use two in the exterior, the lighter on the north surfaces. It casts a rose shadow, but in the strong sunlight looks like English gray—a warm color on overcast days and cool in summer. Much more satisfying than white and kinder to the eyes.

"Lovely," said she, forgetting his eager, almost pained suspense as she studied sketch after sketch—taking them up—comparing them, murmuring to herself softly, excitedly.

After an hour or more of this feverish scrutiny: "You've written your poem and it's magnificent."

He gulped and grinned and would have pushed the plans from her.

"No—wait!" she laid the small brown hands emphatically upon them. "I want to see something here."

"You'll be worn out," said he absently, but watching in a still fascination—a heat, a fire, a happy unrest in his thoughts. Like this she used to stand beside him those first days after his homecoming, rapt, intent, fascinating.

Like this, with a flush on her profile and the warm, singing lips parted.

Other women had stood at this draughting board and casually glanced at his sketches. He pushed their images from him.

He regarded Jerry; the set of her small, beautiful head. An almost defiant look as though she were challenging: "Come on, world! I don't back down." A new look, a kind of fierce independence to her now. Yet a gaiety—a new sweetness.

He noticed her fingers and recalled with a throb their soft, velvet touch. His thoughts incited him. And suddenly he was seeking Jerry as she had once come to him and with flame-sweet eyes waiting for the light of his, murmuring blasphemously: "I bear witness—I bear witness—there is no love but you!"

Loved him like that—wild, reckless adoration. He reached over and covered her hand. He said huskily: "How you've changed! You used to care so much for me. You used to fling your head back and say mad . . ."

"Oh, yes," she interrupted, not raising her eyes. . . . "Yes"—softly.

"Jerry, do you ever regret that we didn't marry?"

"I did at first. But not now. The parting was touching enough as was. It would have been much harder if we'd been married."

"We wouldn't have parted then. I would have been faithful."

"As a duty—yes—I believe you would. But how you would have chafed!

"The only kind of fidelity that's worth a damn in my opinion, is the kind that isn't conscious of its loyalty. To be aware that you are faithful is to be unfaithful because it is to be mentally looking over the fence and longing to jump."

"I wouldn't have looked over the fence."

Oh, Saxon! As long as you lived you would have looked over that fence and wondered with bitter unrest about the color [illegible] vivid sweets denied you. You would have felt robbed. The man's right to test by experience the heights and the depths!

"To me, nothing could be more humiliating than a husband chafing in his fidelity. I could more gaily live with a brazen cheater than with a resentful prisoner."

"You think all this playing around was inevitable?"

"It seems so, doesn't it?"

"But I've had no time for it in the last eight months. And no taste for it."

"And tomorrow your exile ends?"

"I don't think so, Jerry. I don't want it to end."

She reached over for her purse.

"Don't go. I'm tired and felt like talking."

"It's nearly seven."

"It can't be—!" A flush—almost an anger mounted to his forehead. "Will you come in again, then? Come Monday—I'm going to send these plans Monday night. That's about the last moment.

"Jerry—I saw your picture. Sylvia told me about it." He gave a boyish shrug. "I put a deposit on it. It's a pip."

She was a little surprised that he now seemed anxious for her to leave . . . he hurried her to the door . . .

"Come in Monday—will you?"

He did not send Jerry away quite soon enough.

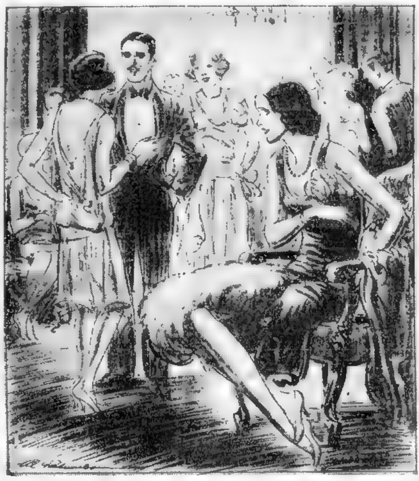
Shyness Merely a Bogey -:-

By BEATRICE FAIRFAX



BASHFULNESS CAN BE OVERCOME

BASHFUL YOUTH MAKES IDEAL LOVER

By Beatrice Fairfax,
An Authority on the Problems of Love and Marriage.

THOUSANDS of young folks are pursued and haunted by the bogey of bashfulness. A certain percentage of my mail each day consists of letters from girls and young men bewailing their shyness, which they feel is a fatal handicap to success in social life and love.

Let me assure you, one and all, bashfulness can to a great extent be overcome by patient effort. I know this from my own experience.

A bashful girl or boy may always retain a little shyness. But this is not necessarily a drawback. If you are bashful you are not likely to be conceited. You will not in that case expect to "get by" on your personality, but will work hard and honestly to deserve and win and hold success, including success in love. And such natures succeed, because they build on a firm foundation.

"Dear Miss Fairfax," writes Ruth. "I am 17 . . . Small, informal dances and two-table bridges are my worry. I lack the pep to start a gathering of this kind going, because I am bashful and quiet. Where can I learn to be an entertaining person?"

Bashful Boy has this to say:

"I am a young man of 20. I am not considered bad looking and can proudly say I possess the character of a gentleman.

"Two years ago I was about the most bashful, self-conscious fellow that ever existed. If I had to shake hands with a girl or carry on a casual conversation I would stammer, shiver and blush.

"Finally I got so discouraged that I confided in my parents. They explained to me various ways of forgetting oneself in company by thinking more of others.

"I made up my mind to do this. Before the first week was up I had for the first time asked a girl for a date and she accepted.

"Since then I have been out with quite a few girls, but in spite of myself I get self-conscious and play the fool. May I implore you to tell me how I can banish the foolishness of bashfulness once for all?"

We can't all be entertaining in the same way. How dull life would be if we were! Your gift, Ruth, is quiet charm. The violet does not agonize and strain to be a rose. Be yourself, dear, with quiet confidence that you have your own refreshing gift of personality. Some young men may turn from you to the vivid, brilliant girl, others will turn to your restful, sympathetic appreciation.

Dear Bashful Boy, can't you see you have learned the secret of banishing the bogey of bashfulness by interest in others? Do not expect complete success instantaneously. Progress [illegible] a little [illegible].

Look for happiness and success outside yourself in the great, useful, fascinating interests of the world today and ways of helping and making life agreeable for others. In that way you can't miss success or romance, and your broad, happy, unselfish view of life will enrich your love and marriage.

REPAIRING FURS

If you are looking over your furs and discover a tear in the skin, it should be mended immediately, or the hard wear of winter will make it beyond repair. If the skin is torn and deteriorated, mending with a needle and silk is practically useless for it pulls away as fast as it is sewn.

Leaves Hair Twice as Beautiful

In a few minutes time, your hair is soft, silky and radiant with life, gloss and lustre.

To have beautiful, fresh looking hair is simply a matter of proper shampooing.

While your hair must have frequent and regular washing to keep it beautiful, it cannot stand the harsh effect of ordinary soaps. The free alkali in ordinary soaps soon dries the scalp, makes the hair brittle and ruins it.

That is why discriminating women, everywhere, now use Mulsified Cocoanut Oil Shampoo. This clear pure and entirely greaseless product brings out all the real beauty of the hair and cannot possibly injure.

Two or three teaspoonfuls of Mulsified is all that is required. It makes an abundance of rich, creamy lather which cleanses thoroughly and rinses out easily, removing every particle of dust, dirt and dandruff.

It leaves the hair soft, silky and easy to manage and makes it fairly sparkle with new life, gloss and lustre.

You can get Mulsified Cocoanut Oil Shampoo at any drug store.

A four-ounce bottle lasts for months.

WORKING WOMEN SELDOM LOSE A DAY'S PAY NOW

Strengthened by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound

MRS. R. C. HAZLETT
Station G., R. No. 3, Columbus, Ohio

Eastwood, Ohio.—"I first took Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound for a weak, nervous, run-down condition, seven years ago, after my baby was born. Some of the girls in the factory where I worked when I was able, advised me to take it. I got one bottle and that helped me so much that I took one after another until I had taken nine in all. But now I just get a bottle when I begin to feel badly, for I must say the medicine sure helped me and I am able to work every day. I will answer any questions anyone asks me, for I think your medicines are fine."—MRS. R. C. HAZLETT, Station G., R. No. 3, Columbus, Ohio.

Recommends the Compound

Los Angeles, Cal.—"I took Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound because I was working in a factory and I was always on my feet, being the supervisor there. This caused my health to fail and I really was run-down very badly as I had no appetite at all and could not eat enough. I am taking the Vegetable Compound and also the Pills for Constipation. I have recommended them for several years and am safe in saying that probably 25 women have been helped through taking my advice. I am glad for you to use these facts as a testimonial."—MRS. E. A. FRANCKEY, 1361 Cypress Avenue, Los Angeles, California.

How to Have Soft, Pretty White Hands

Many women will undoubtedly be glad to know how they may have beautiful, white, soft, pretty hands, regardless of the work they have to do. The secret lies in rubbing a little Ice-Mint into the hands occasionally, preferably just before retiring at night. In the morning you will be agreeably surprised at the pleasant transformation that has been wrought by even a single application. Ice-Mint is made from a Japanese product that is simply marvelous for its beautifying properties, whether used on the hands or face. Regardless of what kind of work a woman does she should have pretty hands, as they are really the true marks of refinement. A few applications of Ice-Mint will actually make any woman proud of her hands and skin. It costs little and is sold and recommended by good druggists everywhere.

ASA'S A SMART ALEC

(Lamar, Mo., Democrat)

"Nightwatch Smed Evilsizer took Asa Fulkerson into custody Saturday night for intoxication. Asa was not under the influence of liquor at the time. But he had been during the week. One evening he saw the night officer start toward him. Asa raced up the street looking over his shoulder and calling out, 'Come on Smed!' Judge Allen fined Asa $15.60."

EMBARRASSING MOMENTS

Sir—

I am an attorney and nothing gives me more delight than preparing motions, briefs, etc., in strict accordance with the traditions of the profession. Recently I prepared a motion for a client, which, if I do say so myself, was verba non facta, functus officio, hac lege currente calamo. Imagine my embarrassment, when, after reading the document, the judge asked me what it meant.

MAKING YOUR WORLD

By LUCY LOWELL

BEAUTY is not all that dwells in the eye of the beholder.

Ugliness, too, dwells there quite as surely as do also success and failure; happiness and discontent, courtesy and snubs; a fine, splendid universe and a dreary world.

For the eye—or rather that force behind it, the mind—is like a mirror which reflects externals according to its own nature, moods and limitation. And the report it registers may be no more an accurate account of things as they exist than a colorblind man's description of the rainbow would be convincing.

Warp that mental mirror with prejudice and resentment, and the picture will be warped and hideous.

Darken it with hatred and it will catch our pictures of cynicism, resentment, strife.

Polish it with good-humor, light it with kindliness, tolerance, understanding and it will show you bright scenes; a colorful world, smiles, agreeable and pleasant companionships.

For it is more than true that like attracts like. A dominant quality of character encounters itself everywhere; it is as if the similitude of that quality waited at every turn to unite with its likeness as two drops of water on a window pane rush together and merge, growing stronger and more aggressive in union.

Thought forever repeats itself; if you wish to move in an atmosphere of friendly, joyous thought, then you must keep your own thought friendly and joyous.

THE MEDITATIONS OF A WIFE

By HELEN ROWLAND

HEAR now, my Daughter, the Prayer of the Spring Bride, which she chanteth in her heart.

Oh Lord, deliver me from all the dangers and pitfalls and imbecilities of a LOOSE TONGUE.

For with this implement hath woman in her folly accomplished more damage than a small boy with a box of tools, or a babe with a pair of shears.

Deliver me from the temptation to PREACH unto my Beloved. For the beginning of preachiness is the end of romance. And a little Reformer in the Home is a tiresome thing!

Stay me from the futility of wasting advice upon mine husband. For between a man's ears there is a draughty passage through which a woman's words blow as leaves in the wind.

And the only way to induce any man to do that which is wise is to persuade him that it is dangerous.

Deliver me from the emptiness and vanity of Nagging. For, alas, a man may be so often reminded of his weakness and failings that he will begin to gloat over them and to cherish them as marks of personal distinction.

And wherefore shall I waste brilliant satire and snappy repartee upon one who is already legally bound to love and admire me?

Spare me, O Lord, from the folly and torment of jealousy. Deliver me from the poison gas of suspicion!

For verily, verily, many an husband might never have discovered that he preferred another woman to his wife had not his WIFE continually called his attention to the deflection of his heart and the "other woman's" perilous charms.

Deliver me from the inanity and madness of seeking to ARGUE with a man. For well do I know that a woman's arguments fall upon a man's consciousness as snow upon the desert and as rain upon the hot pavement.

Yea, as a cat that hath been caught in an April shower, he waiteth only for the deluge to DRY UP—and goeth serenely his own way!

Verily, I know not why Nature hath bestowed upon woman the gift of WORDS. For, in all her dealings with men, they are her undoing!

They are as wind in the trees and rain upon the ocean—as the clatter of steel drill and the passing of a noisy flivver. They do not penetrate his consciousness.

And not until she ceaseth TALKING and beginneth to ACT, is he aware of her!

But silence and sealed lips and a permanent smile are at once her armor and her most potent weapons. SELAH.

Watch Tongue For Signs of Illness

Your tongue is nothing more than the upper end of your stomach and intestines. It is the first thing your doctor looks at. It tells at a glance the condition of your digestive system—and physicians say that 90 per cent of all sicknesses start with stomach and bowel trouble.

A white or yellowish coating on your tongue is a danger signal of those digestive disorders. It tells you why the least exertion tires you out; why you have pains in the bowels, gas, sour stomach, dizzy spells.

Look at your TONGUE every morning!

And it's a sign you need Tanlac. This good old reliable medicine has helped thousands who were physical wrecks. See how the first bottle helps you.

Tanlac contains no mineral drugs; it is made of barks, herbs and roots—nature's own medicines for the sick. Get a bottle from your druggist today. Your money back if it doesn't help you.

How Common People View the Wall Street Ongoings

By B. C. FORBES

New York, April 20—Overheard in the New York subway:

"Looks as if the only place to make easy money is in Wall Street."

"It sure does."

"What do they do for the millions they take from the people?"

B. C. Forbes

"Nothing but skin small stock holders that don't know the game."

"Parasites I call them."

"You're right: parasites and gamblers that will knock stocks down just as quick as they have sent them up, when it looks as if the money can be made by sending stock down."

"It sure is a great game. It makes the rest of us who have to work for a living feel—pikers."

From other comments and communications received, it is clear that what has been happening in Wall Street is attracting attention as never beore. The stock market's ongoings are being described on the front pages in newspapers througout the length and breadth of the land. Such a statement, for instance, as the one that stocks on the New York Stock Exchange "increased in market value" something like $2,500,000,000 last month, staggers the imagination of ordinary folks and causes them to ask questions.

The feeling apparently is widespread that enormous fortunes are being made by "gamblers" who do not, in the eyes of the public, do any real work or create any new wealth.

Another complaint incited — no matter whether well-based or not—is that the workers for the campanies whose stocks have become so tremendously more valuable have not received any share of the enormous amount of money which, it is reasoned, the companies must have been making in order to make their shares worth so much more money. Indeed, the complaint sometimes is voiced that it is because the workers do not get a fair share of what they create that stocks have been able to pay higher dividends and make fortunes for the stockholders and those who speculate in them.

Now, all this probably will not cause the millionaire stock manipulators to pause for one moment to devote a little thought to it. They regard themselves as engaged in thoroughly legitimate activities.

"Am I not helping to increase the prosperity of the country?" I can hear one of them ask. "I am helping to build up, not tear down. I use my time and my knowledge to analyze this, that and the next corporation, and then, if I see that its securities are worth more than they are selling for, I do my best to lift them nearer their proper price. This increases the market value of the holdings of every stockholder, and makes them that much richer. When I reason things out right, of course I make money. But I take all the risk, and surely I'm entitled to be well paid when I'm right—for I lose money quickly enough when I happen to be wrong. The nation wouldn't prosper without a first-class market for its billions of dollars of securities, a market where they can be sold at any moment of the day. And I'm contributing my bit to supplying the nation with this kind of a first-class market."

No person familiar with even the most elementary economics questions the essential need for a broad market for securities. Our whole scheme of life would be unconscionably crippled were the stock market to be done away with—in fact, we simply couldn't function without it or something to fulfill its functions.

Not only so, but professional speculators have very distinct uses. Even the usually-condemned bears perform very necessary services by acting as a brake when Wall Street recklessly exceeds the speed limit—although for quite some time the brakes have not been particularly effective.

And, as a matter of cold fact, nine out of every ten of the reckless speculators end up heavy losers.

Having said that much, the fact remains that the recent wild on-goings in Wall Street are regrettable and deplorable from every point of view. Citizens in every part of the land are aroused into voicing sentiments similar to those overheard in the subway. The effect upon workers also is distinctly bad. The vitally necessary machinery set up in Wall Street to be used is being abused. When the day of reckoning comes, as come it will, Wall Street will incur afresh the condemnation of millions and millions of citizens and voters throughout the country.

The sooner sanity and moderation are restored, the better will it be for America.

BEST GESTURE TO MARKET IS IGNORED

By FRANK H. MELOON, Financial Editor.

There is widespread advertising of the Boston and Chicago Federal Reserve Bank rediscount rates as a "warning gesture" to stock market plungers. The best gesture that could be made to the stock market is ignored. That is the raising of the New York Reserve Bank rate, which remains unchanged at 4 per cent. With money easily obtained at lower rates in the outside market, it is natural to see hesitancy displayed. And raising the money rates is not a "cheerful gesture" for business.

Governor W. P. G. Harding of the Boston Federal Reserve Bank is winning warm praise in financial quarters for his admirable presentation of federal reserve system facts to the parliamentary committee at Ottawa. It is doubtful if any better authority than President Harding could have been sent into the Dominion for this purpose.

W. P. G. Harding E. G. Buckland

President Harding's advice was sought in Poland, but it would be going too far to say it was advice the parliamentary committee sought. This committee was in quest of facts. The Boston banker is an able public speaker, and we have never experienced that "want to go home" feeling while listening to him.

President Henry L. Doherty of the Cities Service Company, which has a big branch in the Fore River district, is able to report 1927 earnings the largest in the company's history. In a year when most of the oil companies lost money, this is indeed remarkable. It was a year ago last month that Mr. Doherty's health broke down for a time. March 3, 1927, trading in Cities Service was temporarily suspended on the New York Curb. Many rumors were afloat then and later, but their falsity is emphasized by the splendid report now made public.

When Vice-President E. G. Buckland of the New Haven, financial genius, completed arrangements for acquisition of the Worcester Consolidated Street Railway there were many skeptics.

For a reply to such people, read this report: "The Worcester Consolidated Street Railway, the entire common stock of which was acquired in January, 1927, by the New Haven Railroad, is beginning to show results of the $1,500,000 spent during 1927 on improvements. Balance after all charges, interest and depreciation for the initial quarter of 1928 of $124,019, compares with $82,660 for the first three months of 1927—a gain of approximately 50 per cent."

* * *

President E. J. Pearson of the New Haven at the annual meeting of that railroad was able to report that "notwithstanding the reduction of 2.23 per cent, or $3,184,483, in gross revenues during 1927, compared with 1926, net income after taxes and charges was $1,550,586 greater than in 1926." If this sort of thing keeps up someone will be sure to advance the idea that the New Haven management ought to undertake operation of some of our other street railways that have been doing none too well, to put it mildly.

MUSSOLINI TO STAR IN FILM OF HIS LIFE

By LOUELLA O. PARSONS.

Los Angeles, April 20.—Mussolini, Italy's picturesque statesman and incidentally one of the world's best actors, is about to star in "The Life of Mussolini," a drama based on his colorful career.

William Le Baron has arranged the details of the deal for F. B. O., who will produce this interesting picture. Le Baron is merely waiting for a cable approving the treatment of the scenario which is already in the dictator's hands.

The moment the final word comes Robert Vignola, one of America's best known directors will sail for Italy, accompanied by a business manager, and Phil Carle, his assistant.

Vignola, who is of Latin parentage and who speaks Italian as fluently as he does English, will surround Il Duce with an all-Italian cast, composed of Italy's best talent.

There is no doubt "The Life of Mussolini" will have world-wide interest. Mussolini is one foreign statesman who is always front page copy. I might say he is my favorite hero. Le Baron and his associates plan to show the development of the Fascist movement and the high-spots in Mussolini's life. What a picture! It should have interest wherever films are shown.

THE one sure way to crash the movie gates in Hollywood is to appear first on the local stage and achieve a hit. Pretty little blonde Greta Granstedt has only a small part in "From Hell Came a Lady" but she makes enough of that small part to register ability.

So much so that she has been signed by Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer to play the ingenue lead in "Excess Baggage." In other words, to play the daughter of the flapper mother with whom she does a sister act in vaudeville. The story of Miss Greta is one of those that should be saved for any collection of Hollywood tales. She doubled for Daphne Pollard at the Mack Sennett studios and never once got a chance herself until Joseph Schildkraut picked her out for this part. Now watch her scale the ladder.

W. C. FIELDS, in all likelihood, will return to the Ziegfeld Follies. The funny man who made juggling so profitable both on the stage and the screen is now on his way to New York. Paramount did not resign Fields, but that needn't worry him since I hear tell he took over $300,000 out of Paramount as a part of his salary. Sounds like an awful lot of money for juggling.

THERE are none so blind as those who will not see. First National has had Dorothy MacKaill under contract for the past three or four years and not once have they realized that she has the making of a big star if she is handled properly. She has many of the qualities of Corinne Griffith and some of the qualities of Colleen Moore, the two stars they are exploiting. She is popular at the box offices, and, moreover, she is a talented little trouper.

But she needs good stories. If given the right stories and the right direction within a year there is no reason why she will not rank with any star in pictures. Too bad the executives in this company cannot see what possibilities Dorothy MacKaill possesses, especially since she is already in the family.

MARY CARR has graduated from the mother into the grandmother roles. Today that doesn't mean very much of a change. There are many flappers among the grandmothers. We haven't heard a word about Mrs. Carr for months until we stumbled upon the news that she is to play a grandmother in Rod La Rocque's next picture, "Love Over Night." She is one of the players we like to see. Richard Tucker has also been added to the cast.

THE Montmartre was treated to an unusual spectacle the other day when a tiny little Japanese lady in quaint Japanese costume fervently kissed the hand of Ernst Lubitsch. The little Japanese lady, a famous actress, and Tzaemon Ichimura, president of Tokyo Actors' Association, were guests of honor at a luncheon given by Mr. and Mrs. Sojin. They expressed a desire to meet Lubitsch, and he grinned like a school boy at this demonstration. When we asked him what was said, he replied reproachfully, "You know I don't speak Japanese, only German and American."

BESSIE LOVE is back from San Francisco where she played in "Burlesque." She has been back long enough, she told me, to take her feet and ukulele to Warner Brothers for a vitaphone number. She lamented audibly that the success of "Excess Baggage" will make it impossible for "Burlesque" to open here in Los Angeles. She did her vitaphoning with Bryan Foy.

SNAPSHOTS of Hollywood collected at random: Lupe Velez enchanting three foreign gallants at a box party at the Werrenrath concert. Tim McCoy with his hat turned up coquettishly a la an Australian cavalier, walking across the M. G. M. lot. Dorothy MacKaill, Seena Owen and ye editor talking movies and other things at luncheon.

June Collyer fascinating several Middle Western tourists with her exotic beauty, set off by a red dress and hat. Mrs. Ralph Ince back from New York, talking shops and theaters and making all of us jealous. Marion Davies posing for still pictures. She is in "Polly Preferred" two ways, as Polly and as Marion Davies. That's all today. Thank you!

Record for Exchange Seat

New York, April 20—Value of membership on the New York Stock Exchange soared to $395,000 with the announcement that arrangements had been concluded for the sale of a seat at this new record figure which is an increase of $20,000 over the previous high mark.

MARQUETTE COUNCIL TO PRESENT COMEDY

Pere Marquette Council, K. of C., will present the comedy "Applesauce" at the Gate of Heaven Hall, L and Fourth sts., South Boston next Monday and Tuesday nights. The play is one of those typical American comedies of small town folk in which an amusing set of characters are revealed.

The committee comprises D. G. K. D. G. Nagle, chairman; William Maher, Daniel Sutry, Arthur J. O'Keefe, P. G. K. Richard J. Dwyer, P. G. K. Thomas Gosnell, John J. O'Brien, Thomas P. McDonough, William J. Rosemond, Frank E. Donnellan, Lombard J. Daley, James F. Barry, Daniel E. Collins, C. Frank Fellows, John J. Connolly, Albert Hines and Grand Knight John F. Cronin.

THE BOSTON AMERICAN'S PLATFORM FOR BOSTON AND NEW ENGLAND

For BOSTON:
1—Clean streets.
2—Solution of traffic and parking problems.
3—Better pay for honest public service.
4—An airport SECOND TO NONE.
5—Erection of a MUNICIPAL AUDITORIUM to compare with any in the land, in order that Boston, properly supplied with first-class hotels, may be the premier convention city of the U. S. A.

For NEW ENGLAND:
1—Weld the six States into a unit through the activities of the New England Council, thus creating a community consciousness.
2—Promote intercourse with Central and South America, encouraging New Englanders to "turn to the sea" again.
3—Keeping everlastingly at the job of telling the rest of the country all about our unique advantages as Summer and Winter Playground of the Nation.
4—Foster the prosperity of our industries through (1) greater efficiency in production and (2) the use of modern methods in merchandising.
5—Promote in every way such natural resources as forests, water powers and fisheries.
6—Assist New England agriculture to better marketing methods.

Extending Public Control of the Eastern Massachusetts Street Railway Company, the House Holds HIS Interest to Be Paramount

The vote of 113 to 75 by which the House of Representatives has passed the Bauer bill, extending the period of public control of the Eastern Massachusetts, may or may not be indicative of what is coming in the case of the Boston Elevated, but at least it shows a disposition on the part of the lower branch to respond to public demand.

Extension of public control, asked for by the Mayor of Lynn, was endorsed by Mayor Bent of Brockton, Mayor Monks of Fall River and Mayor McGrath of Quincy, all of which cities are important to the railway and to all of which the Eastern is a necessity.

Within the original 10-year period of control which will end next January—the extension is for five years—the Eastern Massachusetts has been made new.

Non-paying lines and powerhouses have been disposed of. The service is better. Rolling stock has been improved. Three hundred and twenty-seven miles of track have been rehabilitated. The trustees have co-operated with cities and towns in the public interest.

Holders of common stock wanted the road returned to them. There is $1,000,000 or more piled up in a depreciation fund and they have been waiting 10 years for dividends.

They would drain the depreciation fund to pay dividends and unload their stock on the strength of the resumption of dividend-paying, Mayor Bauer warned the Legislature, and then the State would be asked to take hold again.

One can sympathize with the waiting shareholders while holding with the aggressive Mayor of Lynn that eventually they will be the better off for waiting.

What influenced the committee as much as anything else, perhaps, was the testimony of Senator Harry P. Gifford, president of the Massachusetts Savings Bank Association, that the banks hold $6,000,000 of the Eastern's bonds.

To turn the road back to private management at this time, Senator Gifford held, would be to endanger these investments.

Here we have a SECOND example—the Boston Elevated Railway being the first—of what "political appointees" can do in the way of restoring to health and vigor a railway system which was almost down and out.

What reason is there for supposing that Governors of Massachusetts would not select public trustees as wisely in the case of a Boston Elevated system owned by the communities it serves?

Tardy, But Just

Recognition at Last, Through a Legal Holiday, for Lads Who Went "Over There"

The wonder is not that the Massachusetts Legislature has passed and Governor Fuller has signed a bill making the Eleventh of November a legal holiday, but that our former service men have had to wait so long for it.

Of the States of the Union all except Michigan and New Hampshire have made the Day of Remembrance a day apart.

Few Americans can give the date of the signing of the Peace Treaty; all know the date on which the last cannon roared, the last rifle cracked, the last machine-gun spat death.

While the Republic endures Armistice Day will be a time for remembering the brave lads who went "over there" in 1917 and '18 and never returned, a day for calling to mind the lofty ideals with which America entered the fiercest war in history.

History Not Even Close

IT HAS OFTEN BEEN CONTENDED THAT HYDE N. GROW, THE WAIT-A-MINUTE-MAN WAS REALLY THE RIDER WHO ROUSED THE FARMERS.
MAYHEW GROW HAS BROUGHT TO LIGHT FACTS SHOWING THAT HYDE N. GROW WAS BLACKUSTED, WHICH WAS COMMON, EVEN IN THOSE DAYS.
'HYDE DID THE RIDING AND PAUL REVERE POSED FOR THE STATUES,' SAYS MAYHEW
MAYHEW GROW, MODERN HISTORIAN, WHO CLAIMS IT IS HIGH TIME THAT THE HISTORY OF 1776 WAS REWRITTEN. "IN ITS PRESENT FORM," SAYS MAYHEW, "IT IS A LOT OF HAYWIRE".
THE MOST FAMOUS WORDS OF 1775 WERE NOT "ONE IF BY LAND AND TWO IF BY SEA". HISTORIAN GROW CONTENDS THAT THE MOST COMMONLY TALKED OF REMARK OF THE YEAR WAS UTTERED BY MOORE DUMMER, WHO, WHEN TOLD THE BRITISH WERE COMING, REPLIED "WHAT BRITISH?"
"THE FACT THAT A LANTERN WAS NEVER HUNG ON THE OLD NORTH CHURCH WILL SURPRISE MANY," SAYS M.G. "IT WAS PARKED ON THE STATE HOUSE
"AND FURTHERMORE, LONGFELLOW WAS ALL WET WHEN HE WROTE - 'EACH MAST AND SPAR, ACROSS THE MOON LIKE A PRISON BAR.' THERE WARN'T NO MOON THAT NIGHT."
NOTHING TODAY!
PAUL REVERE THOUGHT IT BETTER TO SOLICIT VOLUNTEERS BY RINGING DOORBELLS. MOST HOUSEWIVES THOUGHT HIM A PEDLAR.
RUK RUK RUK RUK
"THE ONLY PART OF HISTORY THAT MAY BE TRUE IS THAT PAUL REVERE HEARD THE BARKING OF THE FARMER'S DOG," SAYS M.G. "THAT'S WHY HE DIDN'T RING MORE DOORBELLS"

THERE WAS NO BATTLE OF LEXINGTON
MODERN DISCOVERERS, WHO HAVE PENETRATED, AT THE RISK OF THEIR LIVES, THE DARK UNEXPLORED REGIONS OF THE ABERJONA RIVER IN WINCHESTER, HAVE UNCOVERED THE FACT, SO LONG CONTENDED. RICH MEN'S SONS IN THE AIR GAME

By DR. FRANK CRANE

A MAGAZINE recently carried an interesting article about the activities of rich men's sons.

As far as we can see they are much like anybody else's sons.

We commonly think of the sons of rich men as sitting around on the hotel porch at Palm Beach in white flannels, or yachting on the South Seas or some sort of thing like that. But probably there are as many idle sons of poor men.

Of course poor men's sons have to work sometimes in order to eat, but necessity is not the only thing that makes men work.

There is boredom. Ennui has considerable punch in making men get up and hustle.

The article in question says that two dozen young men, all sons of wealthy men, are building air routes, manufacuring and piloting planes, backing inventors and subsidizing aerial schools, and all without the hope of financial return for years to come.

Earl Reeves, the author of the article in question, mentions Sherman Fairchild, who inherited forty millions. In his early twenties he invented a camera now in universal use. He is now manufacturing planes and projecting aerial commutation lines from New York to open in the spring.

Harold F. Pitcairn, heir to some $20,000,000 plate glass fortune, backs the New York-Atlanta air mail route and is a pilot himself, as well as operating two flying fields and an aerial school at Philadelphia.

Edsel Ford, the son of a man considered by some to be the richest man in the world, might loaf and puff cigarettes for a million years or so if he lived that long. He is not going to live that long and gets his fun out of building airplanes and transporting mail and express between Detroit and Chicago, Cleveland and Buffalo.

Charles L. Lawrence, who designed the "Whirlwind" engine which took Lindbergh, Byrd and Chamberlin across the Atlantic, is an engineering executive of the Wright Company, although his family fortune would have served him for life.

J. R. Cunningham is the son of a Portland millionaire, but he works as a mail pilot on the coast for a living, and is flying around in order to learn about commercial aviation.

LISTEN, WORLD!

By ELSIE ROBINSON

HOW old are you?

"As old as I feel!" you laugh.

Don't laugh too soon. It may not be a laughing matter. Youthful emotions are a joy at 14, but they're apt to be a disease at 40.

Our feelings should mature with our bodies. If they do not, we suffer from that disability which psychologists call "infantilism." We have the emotions of babies in the bodies of adults—and it raises Cain with our lives.

A child's mood changes with every passing moment. He cannot concentrate—he enthuses easily—wearies as quickly.

A child wants praise. He will gobble praise as he gobbles candy, and maneuver for more.

A child fears criticism. He will fib in an emergency and make excuses and alibis.

A child likes to boast and exaggerate. By doing so he adds to his feeling of self-importance and calms his secret feeling of inferiority.

A child hates to be different from other children. He wants what other children have. He is apt to persecute "queer" children whose conduct or clothes do not conform with his standard.

A child dreads loneliness. The average child wants to be with the herd and act like the herd.

These feelings are proper in childhood. They are part of the ferment of youth. If the child develops normally, he will slough off these babyish tendencies. He will learn how to conquer his moods—tell the truth, face responsibility and criticism, depend on himself and think for himself.

But sometimes a child does not develop normally. Sometimes he is shielded too much from life, dominated too long by more aggressive natures. Then the childish feelings are carried over into adult years. And we have a grown-up baby.

You've seen people like that—Boasting Bill down at the office, Temperamental Tillie in the home. A nuisance to themselves and to everyone who knows them.

Dr. Collins, one of our greatest thinkers, says that "infantilism is spreading throughout America. He cites proof of our boasting, our exaggerations, our restlessness, our fads, our conceit, our intolerance of new ideas or new people, our demand for standardization.

I HAVE THE NICEST RATTLE AND THE BIGGEST TEDDY BEAR IS UNCLE SAM STILL AN INFANT?
ELSIE -
6-14

Do you agree with him? Check up yourself and your neighbors. Do the folks on your block welcome new ideas or are they fearful and intolerant? Are they calm, poised, adjusted to life? Or are they fussy, self-conscious, peevish? Can they face criticism? Or do they get as mad as hops if anyone tells them of a fault? Think it over.

WORDS OF THE WISE MEN

Experience is the child of Thought, and Thought is the child of Action. We cannot learn men from books. —Disraeli Learning hath gained most by those books by which the printers have lost. —Rev. Fuller.

An action will not be right unless the will be right; for from thence is the action derived. Again, the will will not be right unless the disposition of the mind be right; for from thence comes the will. —Seneca

To one that is not callous, a state of debt and embarrassment is a state of positive misery; the sufferer is as one haunted by an evil spirit, and his heart can know neither rest nor peace till it is cast out. —Bridges.

New York Day by Day

by O.O. McINTYRE

NEW YORK, April 20—Thoughts while strolling: Clarence Mackey looking into a Postal Telegraph window at Fifth ave. and 46th street. The set expression of lifted faces. What's become of Mary Miles Minter? South Americans with gaudy mufflers and Napoleonic sideburns.

All the old Fifth ave. mansions in mid-town are gone—save one. The exception is Helen Gould's home. Where grim dignity stalked now glitter the tiffin temples, the wheat cake castles, hat salons and the opulent facades of hotels. Charlie Journal, the Montmartre head waiter.

These chez places that spell it "tailleur." Mencken with a leather briefcase. Chirping birds fluttering in the Plaza fountain. A woman wheeling a baby carriage and reading "Oliver Twist." Upstairs are shops that never seem to have a customer. Ruth Raphael of Harper's. Wonder how "The Ladder" revision is coming along?

The shabby genteel who sit on the benches along the park wall. Dogs with their names embroidered on blankets. Butlers with those white celluloid Ascot ties. Magnificent apartment houses known only by numbers. And never showing anything so vulgar as activity.

The red bricked Andrew Carnegie home with high iron fence. And the barred windows in the Otto Kahn home. And a few steps beyond the upper Fifth ave. Ghetto with its push cart jabber. Bearded patriarchs who sit in doorways reading the Talmud. Salt rising bread.

Barber shops with radios. Mexican cafes featuring enchilades, conjuevas, tortillas and frijoles. And outside tables where they play cubito and dominoes. Licorice water. Hokey-pokey. Parboiled and salted watermelon seeds. And two street organs to a block.

Cinemas with wild west posters. Red cabbage soup—three cents a bowl. An atheist hotgospeling from a soap box. But the crowd is around the Salvation Army speakers. Gaping doorways. Harridans. The smell of poverty.

ON upper Fifth ave. the children play a game called "Chucko," a variant of "Beaver." It is highly disrespectful of age. They have a jackpot in which they put pennies and then roam the sidewalks in packs. When they see a white beard they scamper toward it and the first to chuck the owner under the chin and cry "Chucko" wins the pot.

THREE men of Broadway in that many years have violated a code Broadway strictly observes and gone quietly into oblivion. They struck women. For a street that lives so loosely this unpardonable sin is a little difficult to grasp. Yet it is unfailing in its thumbs down attitude.

All three violators were more or less prominent when they forgot themselves and indulged in caveman tactics. Men have led women to dishonor and taunted them to self-destruction and have been still accepted by their fellows. But when a hand has been lifted, that has been something else again and Broadway drops them like the proverbial hot cakes.

They become social pariahs, snubbed wherever they go. No matter how low a man may fall in the social scale he still has a chance in the Broadway fellowship if he has never struck a lady.

BUT if a woman strikes a man in the Broadway circles that becomes the inspiration for a lusty cheer. A dawn in a night club is nothing to stay up about unless some gentleman receives a moused optic as the result of being on the business end of a lady's wallop. All the sympathy he gets is a hearty laugh and cries of, "Sock him again!"

INCIDENTALLY, an Amazonian lady in a chop house within the week mistook me for someone else and threatened to punch me. I'm glad she discovered her mistake in time. I'm not put together any too well.

OH, THESE WOMEN!

By Leola Allard

A LADY who was taking her first look at Niagara Falls, and was thoroughly inspired by the sight, did not notice those about her until she heard from a corpulent lady holding hands with what certainly must have been her husband: "Nobody never went over there in no barrel!"

A lady we will call Olsen, living just off 5th ave., New York, is extremely popular, and her friends take adantage of her good nature and joyous hospitality. They drop in at any hour, feeling sure of a warm welcome.

A few weeks ago the lady, being pretty well worn out, was about to retire when in bounced a group with no place to go. She was nonchalant as she remarked:

"I just knew the Chez Olsen would get patronage this evening—after the other places closed."

The lady has been able to rest several evenings since.

Unless your friends are sensitive and sober it won't work. But you can put on warm underwear and turn off the heat. That will.

The Joseph Pavels, 70 and 77 years old, have decided to get a divorce "without a contest." After 51 years of wedded life a contest is no treat.

In Casper, Wyo., a woman has become a commander of an American Legion post. Her name is Mary B. McPake. She's a World War veteran, if you please.

A young woman like Mary doesn't relish being called "veteran." "Commander" is better.

What they are giving her is a command to marry—in which case she never will.

Mme. Nina Grieg, 82, widow of the celebrated composer, Edward Grieg, says: "Modern jazz is terrible and I don't see how it can live at all." If there is one thing that can be said of jazz music it is that it is alive. If it dies as hard as it lives, it's going to be here a while.

Hazel B. Tinnin, brunette, of Midland, Tex., has flown higher than has any other woman in the world. It was 19,600 feet, to be exact. It was the blondes who used to do the high flying.

Poor Hon. Elsie Mackay

The death of this beautiful and courageous young woman is inexpressibly sad. A terrible waste of courage, it may seem. BUT IT IS NOT.

What seems the reckless courage of TODAY, becomes regular, unfailing achievement tomorrow.

Men and women risk their lives, so that others may do, SAFELY, that which they could not accomplish.

Many a man unknown to fame or history tried and failed to sail the wide Atlantic before Columbus came.

But Columbus did come, in his tiny caravel, and now men cross and recross, without thought, in ships of steel a thousand feet long.

The ocean became the grave of this poor girl, but such courage as hers will conquer waves, winds and time. Flying across all the oceans and seas and around the world will be the commonplace experience of those that come after.
